"Lest you should think this story true
I merely mention it Evolved it lately. 'Tis a most unmitigated misstatement."

The House of Representatives rolls such a nice fat pork bar' over to the Senate that the marble floors in the Capitol are positively greasy.

Just for a jingling phone call he left us.

Just because folks called him up in the night,

Tom Blanton's gone off, he sure has benefit us.

Whom shall we get now to set affairs right?

Well, if Tom refuses to be the District's guardian any longer it looks as though we'd have to hire Fenning at 10 per cent.

The House approves the last of the war-debt settlements, the North Pole having been discovered too late to get one.

Senator Underwood, advocating
Mr. Dawes' hopeless cause of revision of the Senate's rules, neglects to inform his colleagues that the reason why he put his tariff bill through the House without a rule was because he had an overwhelming majority behind him roped, tied and branded by the mandate of the two-thirds rule of the Democratic caucus.

Harry Thaw and Evelyn Nesbitt bury the hatchet and smoke the pipe of peace. Here's an interesting little family reunion at Atlantic City.

"O wad some Pow'r the giftie gie us
To see ourselves as others see us!"

Mr. Cummins appeals to his Iowa constituency for re-election on the grounds of his "party regularity," which shows a pretty good forgettery on the part of a Senator who in the Sixty-first Congress preferred to see a Democrat elected President Pro Tempore rather than vote for the nominee of the Republican caucus.

If Uncle Sam is to continue his policy of convicting alien murderers like ordinary criminals it might be well for him to maintain his embassies and legations in foreign countries in rented quarters for a while longer.

Prisoners in the Atlanta hoosgow raise a fund among themselves to test the constitutionality of the narcotic act which has landed some 5,000 of them in quod. The old-fashioned convict who used to dig out now has an up-to-date successor who hires a lawyer and digs down.

Senator Borah is aroused by rumors that Panama has granted concessions to British interests.
That country appears to be trying to act just as if it were a free and independent government and will have to be investigated, by Jingo!

"Let us trust that Wall Street by no boost in oil stocks will upset the President's interesting theory as to the cause of the recent rise in gasoline prices.

Four Ohio co-eds are expelled from college for being intoxicated.
Hips may have gone out of style but somehow the feminine flash manages to find a hiding place.

Secretary Wilbur's press gang shanghai an unwilling Annapolis graduate and send him to sea where the writ of habeas corpus has no social standing. A swell chance Uncle Sam has of getting back a $12,000 education from an unwilling investment.

"Man's work is from sun to sun,
But woman's work is never done."

Regardless of whether there may be a subtle double-meaning in the old nursery jingle, the General Federation of Women's Clubs is on the right track in declaring war on household drudgery. There are too many sinks in the modern home and not enough photographs.

In a very successful operation in Paris the surgeons neatly remove Miss Helen Wills' appendix and hope for the world's tennis laurels.
Every silver lining has a cloud.

The Senatorial Snappers, led by Capt. Jim Reed, decide to hunt for the first mare's nest in Pennsylvania.

Speaking of burying the hatchet and smoking the pipe of peace, Lloyd George and Aquith are going to try to do a Harry and Evelyn without referring the case to The Hague.

Five negro prisoners in the District jail place more reliance in a few iron bars torn from their bunks than they do in the Supreme Court, and almost do a Gerald Chapman.

Commissioner Fenning explains that it is unso.

DAWES' RULES IDEAS RAISE SUCH STORM BACKERS SHUN VOTE

Underwood Asks Reform, Using Poker Game to Stress Points.

REED TERMS HIM
ACE RUNNING WILD

Missouri Believes Too Many Laws Enacted; Robinson Opposes Changes.

By ALBERT W. FOX.

The widely discussed Dawes campaign to change the Senate rules was given a day's try-out in the Senate yesterday, with Senator Underwood seeking to force the issue in favor of reform and Senators Robinson and Reed, of Missouri, leading the opposition. At the end of several hours of unusual debate the principle embodied in the Dawes program and in Mr. Underwood's resolution had been subjected to such criticism that Mr. Underwood declined Senator Robinson's challenge to let the matter come to a vote.

There was a dramatic feature when Mr. Robinson halted his speech to defy Senator Underwood to give the Senate an opportunity to express itself. The Underwood resolution provides that cloture be clapped on by majority instead of two-thirds rule in dealing with revenue and appropriation bills after such bills had been before the Senate for one calendar day. The Dawes plan of reform is for cloture to be applied generally by majority instead of two-thirds rule.

During much of the debate Vice President Dawes heard his theories defended and roundly assailed, and it became clear as the debate progressed that there are virtually no supporters in the present Senate for the Dawes reform plan.

Four Senators Opposed.
Both Senator Robinson and Senator Reed, of Missouri, made serious speeches which were regarded as a par with their best oratorical efforts. Senators McKellar and Heflin also made speeches against change in the rules.

Prior to this, there was a rare comedy scene precipitated by Senator Underwood's endeavor to use the game of draw poker as a means of illustrating his right to filibuster in case the rules of the Senate made this part of the game. It had been previously pointed out that Mr. Underwood, who now denounces the filibuster, had himself led the Senate filibuster which killed the antilynching bill.

"I want to illustrate," Senator Underwood said, in replying to questions by Senators Robinson and Borah, "but I possibly can not illustrate to my friend from Arkansas."

Preachers at Church Door Exchange Blows

Red Bluff, Calif., June 4 (By A.
P.).—Culminating verbal battles between factions of the First Baptist church here, the Rev. J. Brooks Frost, resident pastor, and the Rev.
G. Higginbottom, visiting evangelist, exchanged a score of blows on the church steps yesterday. Both were bleeding when separated.

Trouble arose when Charles C.
Dale, head of a faction opposing the Rev. Mr. Frost on the ground that his advocacy of "praying for the sick" and other practices were contrary to Baptist tenets, took possession of the edifice.

The Rev. Mr. Frost mobilized his supporters and marched to the church. How the Rev. Mr. Higginbottom entered the controversy is not known.

Cold Record Is Set; Frost Does Damage

New York, June 4 (By A. P.).—
With frost in widespread sections, record low temperatures for June 4 were reported from numerous Northeastern States today.

A year ago today the same section was sweltering under record high temperature for the date, the mercury standing at 95 degrees in New York. Today 47.07 degrees was recorded, the coldest June 4 since 1881, when 47 degrees was registered.

Frosts in Rhode Island and Connecticut were said to have been so severe that crops in some sections were injured and in western Massachusetts a light frost whitened the ground.

Three Prisoners Frustrate District Jail Break Attempt

Pair Sentenced for Murder Aid in Saving Guard From Being Beaten to Death by Five—Revolt Led by Man Who Escaped From Occoquan.

Three prisoners, two of them convicted of murder, frustrated an attempted jail break at the District jail last night and saved M. S. Branagan, 55-year-old jail guard, from being beaten to death with iron supports torn from cell bunks by five negro prisoners.

The revolt was led by William Jasper, colored, who recently escaped from Occoquan and more recently was convicted in the District supreme court on a charge of grand larceny and was awaiting sentence and transportation to the penitentiary.

Four other prisoners, Denzie Jackson, colored, sentenced to the penitentiary for life for first degree murder; Morris Turner, colored, under sentence of three years for housebreaking; Henry Valentine, colored, charged with housebreaking and awaiting trial, and Clifton Jones, colored, sentenced to jail for 400 days for forgery and passing bad checks, aided Jasper in the effort to escape.

The first hint of the plot was discovered by Branagan when he found cell 409, to which Jasper is assigned, empty when he made his round of the fourth-floor south wing tier after supper. He found Jasper in cell 415, a large one, with the four others assigned to it.

Opening the door, he ordered Jasper to his own cell. The prisoners fell upon him with fists and the pieces of iron they had torn from their bunks by exertion of their united strength. Overwhelmed, the guard's cry of alarm was stifled with a towel.

The life of Branagan was saved by other prisoners. Chester Batson, colored, a "lifer" for first-degree murder and thierman of that row of cells, raced to the tier below and summoned Jockey Pinkney, colored, thierman there, and John Middleton, colored, another burly thierman, who has been convicted of murder and is awaiting the outcome of an appeal.

Their arrival changed the aspect of the uneven fight. Middleton, a powerful man, waded into the revolting prisoners and their hammering iron clubs.

The noise of the fight brought Maj. W. L. Peak, superintendent of the jail; the jail rotunda guard and assigned, empty when he made his

HOUSE PASSES RIVERS, HARBORS BILL, 219-127

Estimates Fix Authorized Total of Expenditures as High as $90,000,000.

RETAINS 150 PROJECTS

(By the Associated Press.)
An omnibus rivers and harbors bill, brought before the House last week as a $36,000,000 proposal, was passed by the House yesterday with a score of additional projects greatly increasing the total of its possible authorization after surviving one of the bitterest filibusters in recent years. Estimates of the total range from $52,000,000 to $90,000,000.

By a vote of 219 to 127 the measure was sent to the Senate retaining all of its original 150 projects, including those for Illinois river development, resurvey of the all-American canal route across New York State, and government purchase of the Cape Cod canal for $11,500,000. An amendment for navigation development of the upper Missouri river, estimated by committee members to cost between $20,000,000 and $55,000,000 was added amid cries of "pork barrel."
All amounts specified in the bill are maximum authorizations, based upon engineers' estimates of costs, for which appropriations must be made by Congress in separate legislation to initiate work on any of the proposals.

Senate leaders will seek action on the measure at this session. Senator Wadsworth, of New York, chairman of the Republican steering committee, announced after the House had given it approval.
In view of its controversial provisions, however, doubt was expressed in some quarters whether the bill could be put to a vote in the Senate before adjournment.

House debate on the measure, which centered about the Illinois river project on the contention that it involved the question of water diversion from Lake Michigan, was confined largely to dilatory tactics on parliamentary points of procedure in the attempt by opponents of diversion to block final action at this session of Congress.

BRITAIN DENIES SEEKING PANAMA RUBBER RIGHTS

Statements Are Issued After Borah Asks Data From Administration.

CONCESSION IS ON GOLD

(By the Associated Press.)
Aroused by reports that British interests have obtained concessions on vast tracts of public lands in Panama on both sides of the Canal Zone, Chairman Borah, of the Senate foreign relations committee, introduced a resolution yesterday calling on the State and War departments for all available information on the subject.

Immediate consideration of the resolution was requested by Senator Borah, but on objection by the Republican leader, Senator Curtis, Kansas, the measure went over until today when action again will be sought.

Inquiry Has Been Made.
That this government already has investigated the concessions, was made clear later in the day at the White House, where President Coolidge was said to understand that they were surface and subsoil concessions to a British corporation and without objectionable features. The President assumed, however, that the government departments involved would continue to investigate.

One-Eared Tibetans Get Tax Reduction

(Special Cable Dispatch.)

SAND BURIES 5 BOYS AT PLAY; 3 ARE DEAD

Two Others Are Partially Suffocated, but Revived at a Hospital.

Waterbury, Conn., June 4 (By A.
P.).—Three of five playmates are dead and two are recovering from suffocation following a landslide of a 30-foot sand bank here tonight.
The dead are Eugene Chesney, 13; John Bowen, 10; Harold Serrell, 14. Robert Williams, 11, and Edward McDonald, 11, were partly suffocated.

One member of the group was partly buried as he prepared a hole to jump in on the bank. As his companions laughingly worked to extricate him, tons of sand descended upon them.

Firemen were called and in ten minutes the five boys were removed from beneath 12 feet of dirt. Three were dead.

HOLLYWOOD YOUTH DECLARED WINNER IN ORATORY MATCH

Miss Myrtle Posey, of Eastern High School, Is Second.

VICTOR IS CALMEST
OF ALL CONTESTANTS

Champion Will Now Pit His Ability in International Test in October.

Herbert Wenig, 17-year-old high school student, of Hollywood, Calif., won the third national oratorical contest in the Washington auditorium last night, thus giving his home town something to boast about besides its motion pictures and its climate.

Miss Myrtle Posey, a student of Eastern High School, in this city, was awarded second prize, and Miss Helen Bylund, of New York, was awarded third prize. Seven students took part in the contest, they having been chosen from among 2,000,000 student orators throughout the country.

The Wenig youth typifies the newest and most approved school of oratory, that school which believes in appealing to the intellect rather than to the emotions; which eschews "fireworks" in favor of a calm and logical presentation of the facts. The winner made fewer gestures and rhetorical flights than any of the others.

Associate Greets Him.

The first person to congratulate Wenig was John Aiso, 16-year-old Japanese student at the Hollywood High School. In the oratorical contest held in Hollywood the Japanese was declared the winner and Wenig the alternate. Shortly thereafter Aiso was taken sick and Wenig was substituted for him in the State and sectional contests that followed.

As a result of his victory last night Wenig will represent the United States in the first international oratorical contest to be held in this city in October. All seven of those who participated last night will be taken on a two months' tour of Europe in July.

The contest last night had the flavor of a big sport event. A crowd of 5,800 persons was present. Each orator had his rosters in the auditorium. The noise created was swelled considerably by the students from Eastern High school, who turned out to cheer Miss Posey,
but who, with great magnanimity, ended by cheering all of the contestants.

Justices Are Judges.

Chief Justice William Howard Taft and four of his associates on the Supreme Court bench selected the winners. John Hays Hammond presided and addresses were given by Vice President Charles G. Dawes and Walter A. Strong, publisher of the Chicago Daily News. Frank B.
Noyes, president of the Associated Press, announced the winners. Gen.
John J. Pershing was to have awarded a cup to the winner, but a severe cold prevented his being present. This ceremony was performed by Vice President Dawes.

J. A. Wenig, grandfather of the winner, had come from New York for the contest. He is a member of the New York Stock Exchange. The younger Wenig's ancestors were French and German.

Berenger to Return As Ambassador Here

Paris, June 4 (By A. P.).—The official journal today printed a deree announcing that Henry Berenger would continue in his special mission as Ambassador to Washington.

M. Berenger has been Ambassador to the United States since January. He recently returned to Paris, after engaging in discussions at Washington with regard to the French debt funding settlement with the United States, and is now acting for the government in its endeavor to obtain ratification of the agreement.

16-Foot Dolphin Seen In Canal of Venice

Venice, June 4 (By A. P.).—The Gondolfiers of Venice who long have been clothed in romance, dropped their role for a short time today in pursuit of a 16-foot dolphin which made its way into the Grande canal.
They pursued the fish for some time but were unable to capture it.

The appearance of the dolphin in the canal is an unprecedented event.

2 DYING, 3 INJURED, 1 MISSING AS AUTO CRASHES INTO POLE

William Roche and G. R.
Kearns, of This City, in Critical Condition.

ACCIDENT OCCURS
ON LEE HIGHWAY

Three Men and Two Women Are Brought Here; Sixth in Car Not Accounted For.

Two persons were reported dying, three others were injured and one was reported missing early this morning following an automobile accident on the Lee highway at Cherrydale, Va., at midnight last night.

The six persons—four men and two women—were riding in a touring car, which crashed into a telephone pole.

William Roche, of 1116 Twenty-fifth street northwest, and George R. Kearns, of 3312 Volta place northwest, were said to be dying.
Kearns suffered a fractured skull.
It also was believed that Roche's skull was fractured. Others injured were:

Theresa Steger, 19 years old, of Clarendon, Va., contusions and shock.

Myrtle Newman, of 1240 K street southeast, internal injuries.
Thomas Mannix, 2506 M street northwest, broken leg.

Sixth Not Accounted For.

Police said the sixth member of the party was Francis Paxton, of 1120 Twenty-fifth street northwest, who at an early hour had not been accounted for.

The injured were brought to Washington in a bus. Kearns was taken to Emergency hospital. The others were taken to Georgetown University hospital. The last rites of the Catholic Church were received by Roche.

The party was returning to the city when the automobile struck the pole. The machine overturned and was virtually demolished.

Liner Arabic Passes A Mammoth Iceberg

New York, June 4 (By A. P.).—
The White Star liner Arabic arrived today with a report of having passed a mammoth iceberg similar to that which caused the Titanic disaster. Several other ships arriving in the past two weeks have reported icebergs in the transatlantic sea lanes.

Chief Officer Moffatt, of the Arabic, said when off Cape Race, twelve hours from Halifax, Sunday evening, two giant peaks of ice were sighted. At first it was believed there were two icebergs, but on approaching closer it was discovered that the two peaks belonged to the same berg, the middle part of which was submerged.
Several smaller bergs were floating in the vicinity.

HELEN WILLS STRICKEN; UNDERGOES OPERATION

Tennis Star Is Appendicitis Victim; Surgery Termed Successful.

OUT OF TITLE MATCHES

Paris, June 4 (By A. P.).—Helen Wills was operated on for appendicitis today.

Thus American hopes that the California tennis star would wrest the world's tennis laurels from Suzanne Lenglen at the international hard courts tourney now being played in Paris were dashed.

The operation was a success and physicians said she was entirely out of danger. But Suzanne's title will rest secure this year, so far as an American challenge is concerned, for the doctors say it will be absolutely impossible for Helen to play at Wimbledon the end of June. Infact, she probably will not be permitted to wield a racket again until fall.

Helen, of course, thinks otherwise. Even while she was on the way to the operating table she told one of her team mates that she would be "all right for Wimbledon."

"Maybe I will not be able to play in the Wightman cup matches in England, but I am sure I will be ready for Wimbledon."

The announcement that Helen's illness was diagnosed as appendicitis came as a great surprise, even though it had been known that she was out of condition and not feeling in the least well. Her play in last week's Franco-American team matches and again on Wednesday in the first round of the international tournament against Mme.
Golding was far from top form. She looked tired, pale and drawn.

The California girl herself thought she had overtrained. This

Baroness Klinger Ends Life After Baron Fights Prince

Vienna, June 4 (By A. P.).—
The beautiful Baroness Klinger committed suicide today in her castle at Raab, lower Austria.

This morning her husband went hunting with a guest, a Russian prince, Cyril Vladimir Orloff, whose attention to the baroness, it is alleged, he objected to. While moving through the forest after game, the baron was struck by a shot which pierced his lung. Believing it had been fired by the prince, Klinger fired at him, wounding him in the arm. Both men were taken to a hospital, and the baroness subsequently ended her life in a fit of despair.

London, June 4 (By A. P.).—
A version of the suicide of Baroness Klinger at her castle in lower Austria, told by the Vienna correspondent of the Daily Mail, says she shot herself upon hearing that her husband and Prince Cyril Orloff had both been wounded in a revolver duel on the grounds of the castle.

Baron Klinger had invited Orloff and other guests to a fishing expedition. The baron, according to this version, resented Orloff's conduct toward the baroness, and a violent quarrel ended in a revolver fight, Orloff being shot in the arm and Klinger in the lung.

46 NURSES AWARDED DIPLOMAS AT ARMY CENTER GRADUATION

Walter Reed Hospital Exercises Are Attended by High Officials.

VERMONT GIRL WINS
COVETED REA MEDAL

Brig. Gen. Edwards Presents
Certificates as Army Band Plays.

Forty-six nurses, including five District girls, were graduated at exercises at Walter Reed hospital, the army medical center, yesterday afternoon.

The graduation exercises were participated in by high army officers and officials of the army nursing service.

Miss Barbara Channing Miller, of Vermont, was awarded a double honor. Elected by her class as the most beautiful nurse, hers not only was the honor to receive a diploma from Brig. Gen. James M. Kennedy, but also to receive the coveted Rea medal, presented for proficiency in nursing.

Gen. Edwards presented the diploma, and Miss Margaret H. Lower presented her the Rea medal on behalf of Mrs. Henry R. Rea.

Chaplain J. Hall delivered the invocation, which was followed by introductory remarks by Maj. Gen. Merritt W. Ireland, the surgeon general, and an address by Representative Florence P. Kahn, of California.

Army Band Plays.

The program was preceded, interspersed and ended with a concert by the Army band. Capt. William J. Stannard, band leader, Gen. Kennedy presented the diplomas, Miss Lower the Rea medal, and the benediction was pronounced by Chaplain Benjamin F. McGee. Retreat, sounded on the bugle, ended the graduation ceremonies and was the signal for relatives and friends in the audience to crowd about individual nurses and offer them congratulations.

The five young women from the District who were graduated are, Misses Anna Florina Corder, Edith Robin, Grace Garrison Sanford, Augusta Lee Short and Frieda Stromberg Coleman. Other graduates were:

Bertha Elsa Anderson, Minnesota; Catherine Bleeker Bangs, New York; Theresa Bonaparte, Iowa; Marie Elizabeth Berg, Pennsylvania; Louise Bonewitz, Illinois; Ruth Susan Boyd, Ohio; Doris Marion Coolidge, Pennsylvania; Frances Mabel Crosson, Indiana;

Agnes Davis, California; Rosellen Doyle, Michigan; Edith Mae Eades, Texas; Mildred Conrad Ellis, North Carolina; Margaret Edith Francis, Massachusetts; Bert Curtis Harder, Georgia; Marion Harms, New York; Beattie Olive Hart, Illinois.

Edna Marie Hollis, Pennsylvania; Christine Marie Howell, Pennsylvania; Glenna Portia Irick, Illinois; Beulah May Johnson, Vermont; Helen Violet Johnson, Massachusetts; Grayce Jones, Alabama; Helen Milre Kenner, Indiana; Dorothy Mae Kurtz, Maryland; Irene Langford, Connecticut; Virginia Long, Virginia; Alta Morton McNeill, Montana; Barbara Channing Miller, Vermont; Elsie Moore, North Carolina; Clara Jack Perry, Illinois; Mary Alice Pierce, Missouri; Frances Redder, Washington; Lois Helen Sears, Wisconsin; Lillian Agnes Stecher, Maryland; Adeline VanGosman, Indiana; Martha Elizabeth Watkins, North Carolina; Lucy Alice Waugh, Indiana; Alice Chauncey Wickward, Massachusetts; Rachel Greiner Wilson, Virginia; Laura Keene Wood, Virginia; Isabel Marie Young, Montana.

WHITE IS ORDERED TO EXPLAIN ACTION

St. Elizabeths Head Must Answer Charge Brought by Paroled Patient.

Dr. William A. White, superintendent of the government hospital for the insane, was ordered yesterday by Justice Hoehling in circuit court to appear June 8 to explain why he "keeps a string tied" to John B. Jones, of Charlottesville, Va., a veteran of the world war. Jones, who is out on parole, and is allowed only to visit his home, has sued out a writ of habeas corpus through Attorney George F. Curtis.

It is asserted by Jones that he has never been adjudged insane by any court, and that if he had been, no court in this jurisdiction could control his movements because he is a resident of Virginia. The "string" consists of the alleged actions of Dr. White in putting the police at Charlottesville to arrest Jones every time the latter goes home without express permission from the asylum authorities. On two occasions, Jones stated, he was punished at the asylum because he went home without permission. On August 15, 1922, Jones stated, he came to Washington for treatment and vocational training, but was sent to the insane asylum and detained there almost four years. He says that he participated in the engagement in the Argonne forest in France and had his shirt burned off his back and his face and hands burned. Before the war he was a student at the University of Virginia. He served in both the army and the marine corps, he said.

POLISH PRESIDENT TAKES OFFICE AMID CHEERS FOR SOVIET

Inaugural Marred by Reds, Who Demand Political Prisoners Be Freed.

RULE BY UNOFFICIAL TRIUMVIRATE IS SEEN

Pilsudski Presides in Regal
State; Will Live in Same Palace as Executive.

Warsaw, Poland, June 4 (By A. P.).—Ignatz Moscicki, until a few days ago a comparatively obscure professor in Lemberg university and now president of the Polish republic, was formally inducted into office at noon today. The ceremony took place in the historic castle of the Polish kings.

The only untoward incident of the inauguration was a demonstration by communists, which came immediately after President Moscicki had taken the oath of his office before the national assembly which elected him president on Tuesday, after Marshal Pilsudski had declined the office the previous day.

Shouts of "We want political prisoners released!" "Give us work for the unemployed!" and "Long live the peasants and workers' soviet government!" were heard. The acting president, M. Rataj, tried to silence the communists, without avail, when the assembly, with vigorous cries of "Long live Poland!" "Long live the president!" drowned them out.

Old Cabinet Resigns.

The interim cabinet, set up after the coup d'etat of Marshal Pilsudski brought about the resignation of President Wojciechowski and the Witos government, presented its resignations to President Moscicki on August 15, 1922. President Moscicki requested it to carry on until a new ministry is appointed.

While it is expected that the new cabinet will be virtually the same as the provisional one, there is a growing feeling that Poland will be ruled by an unofficial triumvirate made up of President Moscicki, Marshal Pilsudski and M. Bartel, who will propose general orders collectively, though they will be issued in the name of the president. Marshal Pilsudski had a prominent place on the platform during the inaugural ceremonies. He sat in a special elaborate armchair, overhung with light blue tapestry, surrounded by the other members of the Bartel cabinet. The fact that he will reside at the royal castle, in which the president also will live, is pointed to by many as evidence that he will remain the driving power behind the president. After the ceremonies were concluded the president proceeded to the state audience chamber to receive the congratulations of the cabinet and the diplomatic corps.

To the Associated Press correspondent, he said: "I am happy, through the Associated Press, to send words of greeting and admiration to the American people. It is my ardent wish that Polish-American relations, especially economic, be more firmly cemented. My inauguration almost coincided with your Independence day."

The president then assured all the correspondents that Poland intends to advance by peaceful methods and hard work. He issued a proclamation and appeal to the people asking them to forget political and factional disputes; to pull together for the nation's welfare.

Games of Chance Held Illegal in Arlington

Judge Harry R. Thomas, in Arlington county police court, yesterday decided that operation of games of skill or chance at the Lyon Village Citizens association carnival was against the law, but did not pass sentence on the four defendants, A. B. Eaton, chief of the Clarendon fire department; E. C. Cartwright, Gorman M. Hendricks and H. E. Steele, who were arrested Thursday.

Counsel for the defense said that as soon as sentence is passed he would appeal the case to the circuit court.

Man and Wife Hurt When Bus Hits Auto

Two persons were injured, one seriously, last night when a large intercity bus, owned by the Peoples Rapid Transit Co., of Philadelphia, crashed into an automobile in which they were riding at Ninth street and Maryland avenue northeast. The injured are Arthur S. Trammelle, 1238 D street, southeast, and his wife, Mrs. Alice May Trammelle, 35 years old. Both were treated at Casualty hospital by Dr. E. J. Grass.

Mrs. Trammelle suffered bruises on the body, a sprained ankle, a fracture of the head and a possible skull fracture. Her condition is serious. Her husband received cuts and bruises on the body and injuries to his neck. His condition is not serious. The automobile in which they were riding was almost completely demolished, police said. Edwin Bevens, 27 years old, of Philadelphia, driver of the bus was arrested by police of the Ninth precinct and was later released pending outcome of Mrs. Trammelle's injuries.

MARYLAND CONSTABLES DIFFER ON GAME RAID

Investigation May Result From Alleged Protest Over Authority.

TERRITORY IS DISPUTED

Whether an investigation will be conducted into the misunderstanding which two Prince Georges county constables had early yesterday when "The Hardway," alleged gambling establishment on the road near Suitland, Md., was raided, will be known today when Constable Guy Roberts, who led the raiding party, reports to State's Attorney Alan Bowie.

The raid was the opening of another drive which county officials plan to conduct against gamblers. State's Attorney Bowie stated that any time or any place when it was learned that the gambling law was being violated, steps would be taken to stop the violation.

The misunderstanding occurred when Roberts led his party onto the porch of the establishment and was confronted by Constable B. Bailey. Bailey contended, it was said, that if any raiding was to be done, he would lead the raid.

Roberts ignored the contention and went on with his invasion despite the protests from the other constable. It was found necessary to ask help of local police. Acting Chief of Detectives Charles Mullen was called on, but refused aid, due to the fact that the territory was out of local jurisdiction. After a bitter battle against the occupants of the establishment, the raiding party, surrounded by the members of the Bartel cabinet, the fact that he will reside at the royal castle, in which the president also will live, is pointed to by many as evidence that he will remain the driving power behind the president.

After the ceremonies were concluded the president proceeded to the state audience chamber to receive the congratulations of the cabinet and the diplomatic corps.

Jugoslav Debt Pact Approved by House

(By the Associated Press.)
The last of the settlements negotiated by the American debt commission, that with Yugoslavia, was approved yesterday by the House, 80 to 14, and sent to the Senate.

The debt amounts to $62,500,000 and is to be paid by 1937. Representative Schafer (Republican, Wisconsin, made the only speech in objection, contending there had been no evidence of Yugoslavia's capacity to pay.

Four Coeds Expelled On Drinking Charge

Springfield, Ohio, June 4 (By A. One of the students was a member of this year's graduating class. The names of the five were not made public.

Home of a Pilgrim To Be Moved to U. S.

London, June 4 (By A. P.).—Chantry house, Billingsgate, Essex, the sixteenth century residence of Christopher Martin, one of the leaders of the Pilgrim Fathers, was sold to an American this afternoon for removal to Boston, Mass. The price was $10,000 (about $50,000).

Rites for Mrs. W. B. Brookings.
Funeral services for Mrs. Walter B. Brookings, of Alexandria, Va., who died in New York Thursday, will be held in Fort Myer chapel at 2 o'clock today. Interment will be in Arlington National cemetery. Mrs. Brookings was stricken with septic pneumonia while en route to attend the annual meeting of the alumnae association of Wellesley college.

Woman Hurt in Auto Crash.
Police are searching for the driver of a large touring car which collided with a coupe driven by Mrs. John Baxter, of the New Tivoli apartments, Park road and Hyatt place northwest, yesterday at Thirtieth and M streets northwest, and then left without making known his identity.

SHRINERS PAY HOMAGE TO LEONARD P. STEUART

Approximately 1,500 Escort
New Imperial Outer Guard to Raleigh Hotel.

VISITORS JOIN IN HONOR

In a wealth of pageantry redolent of the Shrine parade three years ago, approximately 1,500 local and visiting Shriners escorted Leonard P. Steuart, who was elected imperial outer guard at the Shrine convention just closed in Philadelphia, to the Raleigh hotel from Union station on his return last night in honor of his attainment to the high office of the order.

About 600 men in the parade were in uniform. The others were distinguished solely by the red caps they wore. All the units of Almas temple assembled at Union station for the arrival of Mr. and Mrs. Steuart at 7:45 o'clock. The parade followed along First street northeast, to B street, down B street to First street northwest, thence to the Avenue and down the Avenue to the hotel.

The parade was led by Maj. Edwin B. Hesse, chief of police, in an automobile. Following in a car were Mr. Steuart, Charles D. Shackelford, potentate of Almas temple; James C. Hoyle, first ceremonial master of the temple, and F. Lawrence Walker, recorder, and last in an automobile were Mrs. Steuart and Mrs. Shackelford. The combined bands of Almas temple and Anah temple, of Bangor, Maine, were next, after which followed Almas drum corps, the Anah temple patrol, the Almas Legion of Honor, the Almas primary and the "novelty" of various temples.

A reception was given Mr. Steuart in the ballroom of the Raleigh. A speech of congratulation was made by Mr. Shackelford, followed by a response by Mr. Steuart. Edward L. Dutton spoke in praise of Mrs. Steuart, and she followed with a brief response. Previously visiting nobles had formed a guard of honor through which Mr. Steuart, accompanied by officers of the local temple, passed to the stage. After the reception a dance was held.

The Almas temple delegation arrived from Philadelphia early yesterday morning. The Anah temple, of Bangor, with the Kora temple, of Lewiston, Maine, came as special guests of the local temple today. Members of about 40 other temples returning from the convention, numbering about 2,000, Shriners, were entertained here yesterday.

Near Beer Saloon Is Raided by Police

Within a stone's throw of police headquarters, the near-beer saloon of Peter Loftus at Thirteenth and a-half and C streets northwest was raided yesterday by police of the First precinct, who arrested Loftus and seized 4 gallons of alleged whisky.

Scores of District and Southern railway employees watched the raid from the windows of their offices. A shout of laughter greeted the appearance of one man with a string of fish, who was led to the patrol. Precinct Detectives W. H. Messer and C. Stepp, Sgt. W. H. Carlin and Policemen W. J. Du Buskey and A. Mansfield staged the raid. Loftus was charged with illegal sale and possession of intoxicating liquors. Others netted in the raid were booked as witnesses and released.

Pennsylvania Contest First Campaign Probe

The Senate subcommittee which is to investigate campaign contributions and expenses will take up the Pennsylvania primaries Wednesday. Senator Reed, of Missouri, chairman of the subcommittee, will hold open hearings in Room No. 225, Senate office building, beginning at 10 o'clock.

Subsides for various witnesses are being prepared, but there is considerable secrecy as to whom these witnesses are. The understanding is that the first witnesses will include Mr. Vare, the successful candidate; Mr. Pennington and Mr. Finch, together with managers of their respective primary campaigns.

Thief Escapes Crowd In Office Building

Pursued by a score or more of men, a sneak thief ran down nine flights of steps in the Wilkins building, 1512 H street northwest, yesterday afternoon and escaped. The thief was surprised by an elevator girl while forcing open a desk in a ninth-floor office.

When the thief became aware that he was being watched he brushed by the elevator girl and started to run down the steps. The girl screamed and several clerks rushed from their offices and started after the man. The pursuers gained reinforcements as they descended each floor, but when the robber reached the street he disappeared in the crowd.

CONVICTS AT ATLANTA TO TEST NARCOTICS ACT

Constitutionality of Harrison Law to Be Brought Up in Supreme Court.

MAY OPEN 5,000 CELLS

Atlanta, Ga., June 4 (By A. P.).—Inmates of the Atlanta penitentiary are raising a fund to test the constitutionality of the Harrison antinarcotic act. If the effort is successful, it is figured that over 5,000 drug addicts and peddlers of narcotics will be released from penitentiaries and jails, where they are now confined. This became known today when Good Words, monthly publication of the Federal penitentiary here, for June came out with an article headed "To Test the Harrison Act."

A committee, consisting of Claude D. Smith, Albert Insinger, George M. Sturgell and F. J. Seife, is raising a fund from among the inmates to test the constitutionality of the Harrison act, the story said. "In an opinion rendered by the Supreme Court last January, in the case of the United States vs. Donahue, Mr. Associate Justice McReynolds practically challenged the force of the Harrison narcotic act to bring the matter before the court on the single issue of constitutionality, and that the challenge has been accepted. Able lawyers have been retained, who will take the issue into court squarely on a writ of habeas corpus, based on the claim that a selected prisoner has been unlawfully imprisoned, on the ground that the Harrison act is unconstitutional."

"If this contention is sustained, the government will be obliged to release over 5,000 drug addicts and peddlers of narcotics now being held in United States penitentiaries and county jails as Federal prisoners."

BRITISH DENY CHARGE OF RUBBER MONOPOLY

Their inquiries to make sure that the contracts were satisfactory so far as the interests of this country are concerned.

Senator Borah acted on the basis of information furnished to him by Richard O. Marsh, of Brockport, N. Y., who at one time was in charge of the American legation at Panama City. His understanding is that the concessions were obtained for the purposes of producing rubber, and he has presented his data to a number of senators as well as to the War and Commerce departments.

Government Not Interested. (Special Cable Dispatch.)

London, June 4.—A flat denial to the report from Washington that this government is interested in a British corporation, which, according to Richard O. Marsh, an American rubber expert, aims to acquire a British rubber monopoly in Panama, was given tonight.

An equally emphatic denial to Marsh's claim that the Panama Corporation, of this city, has a concession of practically all the Panama lands on which rubber can be grown was forthcoming from the officials of this corporation here.

Inquiries of both official and commercial circles go to show that the Marsh report, suggesting that this country is seeking to invade the Monroe doctrine in Panama, descended here like a bolt from a clear sky. The governmental and company spokesmen entered into a competition of unequivocal assurance that the former head of the American legation in the Canal Zone territory discovered a mare's nest in seeking to stage an Anglo-American "incident" in his report to the War and Commerce departments.

"You can deny that story as flatly as possible," the foreign office spokesman said when shown dispatches from Washington asserting that this government is backing a Panama corporation, aimed to strengthen the British rubber monopoly and shield the United States. He added that the foreign office had no information bearing out the suggestion that any British corporation is seeking to acquire a monopoly of the rubber growing lands in Panama.

The spokesman for the Panama Corporation pointed out that the corporation was floated in April with the backing of American and French financiers as well as British concessionaires, including Sir Alcyon Mond, and was organized solely to investigate the minerals wealth, especially the gold fields, in Panama.

AMERICAN LEGATION IN URUGUAY BOMBED; HALLWAY WRECKED

AGENTS OF POLICE HELD;

No One Hurt by Blast; 10 Pounds of Iron and Lead Fragments Found.

Montevideo, Uruguay, June 4 (By A. P.).—The American legation here was bombed today, this being the second bombing in recent weeks of a United States legation in a South American country, attributed to agitation of radicals over the conviction for murder in Massachusetts of Nicola Sacco and Bartholomeo Vanzetti. The United States embassy at Buenos Aires was bombed on May 16.

The American legation here has been under close guard since the incident at Buenos Aires. The explosion, which occurred while many persons were passing the building, demolished the ceiling of the entrance hall which is directly under the office of the American Minister Hugh Grant Smith, who was not in the building at the time.

Bomb of Great Power.

The bomb, apparently one of great power was loaded with pieces of iron, lead, steel, wire and screws. Ten pounds of fragments were collected. Manuel Garcia, a Spaniard and a porter of the legation, narrowly escaped injury.

The police are mystified as to how the bomb was planted without coming under observation. The building was under a special guard day and night. The only persons thus far detained are the police agents charged with guarding the place.

The chancery is situated on the second floor of the building, the ground floor being occupied by

British Heir Yields Prize Won by U. S. Marksman

London, June 4 (By A. P.).—The Prince of Wales, as honorary colonel of the Queen's Westminsters, presided at a jolly dinner given tonight by the regiment in honor of 107th United States Infantry regiment. The Westminsters and Civil Service rifles were defeated recently at Blisley by the American riflemen for the Vincent shield.

Wales presented the shield and medals to the winning team, and proposed a toast to them. "I congratulate you all most sincerely," he said, "but we, of the Queen's Westminsters, remind you we only hand over the shield temporarily. If we have anything to say in the matter, it will not be long before our regiment goes over to fetch it back again."

Col. Wade H. Hayes, captain of the American team, expressed deep appreciation for the prince's remarks and of the splendid reception the riflemen had received.

a store, which, at the time of the explosion, had not opened for the day.

Handbills Circulated.

Early this morning, before the legation was bombed, multicolored handbills appeared in parts of the city about the Sacco-Vanzetti case. Among these was one reading: "All is lost! These are the words of the Sacco-Vanzetti committee of Boston announcing to the world—that North American justice is soon to commit the most horrible of crimes."

Further on the handbill said: "All is not lost if we unite our forces and realize a last effort so that none of us may be termed cowards."

The handbills were signed by the "Committee of Bakers." They exhorted the workers to participate in all movements which the Uruguayan labor union makes on behalf of the convicted men.

The Sacco-Vanzetti case has been the center of considerable agitation in radical circles in South America for some time, being particularly in the public eye since the recent refusal of a new trial to the convicted men.

Raid Made in Argentina.

The explosion in front of the embassy at Buenos Aires came shortly after the denial of the new trial. No one was injured in the explosion at Buenos Aires and but little material damage was caused.

The Argentine government expressed its regrets for the incident to Ambassador Peter Augustus Jay, and a few days later police raided the meeting place of a committee which was carrying on agitation in behalf of Sacco and Vanzetti.

A report to the State Department said a bomb exploded at 8 o'clock yesterday morning in the vestibule of the building in Montevideo, Uruguay, in which the chancery of the American legation is located, but injured no one.

The message, signed by U. Grant Smith, American Minister, said details would be telegraphed later.

LIBERALS IN BRITAIN ASK RECONCILIATION

Peace Between Lloyd George and Asquith Is Goal of Movement.

London, June 4 (By A. P.).—A movement toward reconciliation of the Lloyd George and Lord Oxford wings of the liberal party is reported by London newspapers to be under way as a result of yesterday's meeting of the parliamentary group, at which the war-time premier justified his attitude during the recent general election.

The session was secret and while it was understood that supporters of Mr. Lloyd George were in the majority and ready to give him a vote of confidence, the gathering was adjourned until next Tuesday, to permit a committee to acquaint Lord Oxford with "the sense of the meeting."

Mr. Lloyd George's speech was a justification of his attitude in refusing to participate in party councils during the general strike. He delivered a long and impassioned discourse, giving his reasons for not accepting the invitation of the Earl of Oxford, leader of the liberal party, and his supporters who took Lloyd George to task for his refusal to be present at a "shadow cabinet" meeting and denounce the strike.

WILBUR SAYS YOUTH WHO SPURNED OATH MUST STAY IN NAVY

Zirkle, Who Declined Ensign's Commission, Sails on Practice Cruise.

APPOINTED BY TINCHER; KEEPS MIDSHIPMAN RANK

Secretary Explains Course at Annapolis Cost Government $12,000.

Annapolis, Md., June 4 (By A. P.).—The battleship New York, steaming away at 5 o'clock this afternoon for the annual Naval Academy summer cruise, carries one unwilling passenger. Earl B. Zirkle, of Garden City, Kans., who yesterday upset navy precedent by refusing to accept his commission as a naval ensign, is aboard, on order of Secretary of the Navy Wilbur, for another trial of the navy life he has sought to spurn.

Zirkle attempted to refuse his diploma, but he was obliged, under orders to appear at the commencement exercises and receive it from the hands of Secretary Wilbur. The conferring of a commission upon him halted abruptly, however, when he declined to take the oath. While his 445 classmates scattered to their 30-day leave of absence, Zirkle went aboard the battleship, to sail today with the underclassmen.

His case will not be considered until the completion of the summer cruise. He will be permitted to keep his diploma, and Secretary Wilbur and Rear Admiral Louis M. Nulton, academy superintendent, expressed hope that another summer on the sea would cause him to reconsider his decision that he has "no taste" for a naval life.

Besides the New York, the battleships Utah and Wyoming are taking part in the cruise, carrying more than 1,200 midshipmen, under command of Rear Admiral Carl F. Vogelsang.

The squadron will return from Guantanamo, Cuba, the last week in August.

Appointed by Tinchler.

Garden City, Kans., June 4 (By A. P.).—Midshipman E. B. Zirkle, of Garden City, Kans., was appointed to the Naval Training school by Representative Tinchler, of Kansas, in 1922. Zirkle, the valedictorian of his class, was graduated from the Garden City High school in 1922.

Acquaintances here declare Zirkle did not know he would be required to serve in the navy when he accepted the appointment to the academy. They said he looked upon the academy as a regular college course. Zirkle, they declare, had expressed his willingness to serve as a reserve officer. He wrote a letter to his parents here two weeks ago and said he would be glad when he was graduated and did not think he would accept a commission. He is 22 years old.

He is the son of Charles R. Zirkle, postmaster and real estate man here.

Earl B. Zirkle will continue in the naval service as a midshipman. Secretary of the Navy Wilbur announced in Washington yesterday.

Secretary Wilbur, saying he had heard no reason for Cadet Zirkle's action other than reports that naval life was distasteful to him, explained that no resignations are accepted from cadets during the "first class year," or their last year at the academy, or for two years after graduation from it.

It is estimated by Secretary Wilbur that a naval academy student's education costs the government $12,000 and it is felt that the government is entitled to some return.

WRIGHT IS ARRESTED ON PEACE WARRANT

Architect Soon Is Released, However, in Dispute With Estranged Wife.

Spring Green, Wis., June 4 (By A. P.).—Frank Lloyd Wright, noted architect, who has barred his estranged wife, Miriam Noel Wright, from his villa, "Taliesin," near here, was arrested today on a peace warrant obtained by his wife. He was released shortly afterward on advice of N. S. Boardman, district attorney of Iowa county.

Wright was taken into custody as he emerged from "Taliesin," after an all night vigil marked by two separate "attacks" on the Wright bungalow by his wife.

Mr. Wright, it was learned today, was standing on a hilltop watching the proceedings, as his wife staged her two sensational assaults on the villa.

Another development came when it was discovered that Olga Milanoff, Montenegrin danseuse, was at "Taliesin" until yesterday morning, when she fled. It was she whom Mrs. Wright charged with causing trouble between her and her husband.

Motor Exhaust Kills Father and Two Sons

Youngstown, Ohio, June 4 (By A. P.).—The bodies of W. A. Barnes, aged 38 and his two children, Lois, aged 8 and John aged 6, were found today in a closed car at Ellsworth, Ohio, 15 miles south of here, under circumstances which led authorities to believe the tragedy was a double murder and suicide.

Schoolboys found the car behind the Ellsworth school, with the engine running. An inner tube had been cut, one end tied over the exhaust pipe of the little coupe, and the other end placed inside the car. Barnes' wife deserted him and their three children two years ago. A third child lived with Barnes' parents at Newcastle, Pa.

Looting Ship Vault Laid To Grudge Against U. S.

Hoboken, N. J., June 4 (By A. P.).—A grudge against the United States prompted Albert Rosenberg, a stowaway on the United States liner George Washington, to loot the ship's vault of currency and checks worth $137,000, Federal officers say. Rosenberg and Frank Bara, seaman, were in the brig in manacles when the vessel arrived today.

Although the robbery was discovered shortly after the liner began its eastward journey, it took eight days to find where the loot was hidden, in the steel jacket of a smokestack.

Officials said Rosenberg had told them that he had served two years in Atlanta penitentiary and had decided to collect $2,000,000 in revenge for his imprisonment. Bara was charged with having been an accomplice.

U. S. RESERVATION MADE ON ARMS RULE

Listing Geographical Features as Peace-Time Weapons Is Protested.

Geneva, June 4 (By A. P.).—The American delegation to the military subcommittee of the preparatory commission on disarmament today entered a formal reservation to the decision of the committee to include in peace-time armaments all geographical features of a country which have been adapted with a view to their future use in war.

The Americans objected to the decision on the grounds that its wording was too vague and too all-embracing.

The delegation, however, supported a proposal that peace-time armaments should include all defensive organizations of a mother country and colonies, including naval air bases, ports of call, arsenals and other peace-time military establishments. The proposal was adopted.

An Italian amendment asking that canals be regarded as peace-time armaments was rejected and a similar fate met a German proposal to consider industries organized with a possible war purpose also as peace-time equipments.

DEMOCRATS TO VOTE IN NORTH CAROLINA

Senator Overman and Two House Members Opposed for the Primary.

Raleigh, N. C., June 4 (By A. P.).—North Carolinians will go to the polls tomorrow to nominate a Democratic candidate for the United States Senate and two Democratic candidates for the House of Representatives.

Senator Lee S. Overman, of Asheville, is opposed for renomination by Robert R. Reynolds, also of Asheville. Representative A. L. Bulwinkle, of Gastonia, Ninth district, is opposed by J. A. Dimmette, of the same city. Representative Zebulon Weaver, of Asheville, Tenth district, is opposed by Felix Alley, of Waynesville.

Republicans will not participate in the primary election since the candidates of that party were unopposed.

A number of State officials also are to be nominated.

Freed to Die at Home, Man Is on Chain Gang

Pickens, S. C., June 4 (By A. P.).—Asa Patterson, aged Union veteran, of Pickens county, Georgia, who was pardoned from a life prison term that he might go home to die, is serving a chain gang sentence in Pickens county, South Carolina, for a prohibition violation.

Patterson began a life prison term in Georgia more than 4 years ago, after eluding authorities in that State for more than 40 years. He had been convicted of murder, but escaped from the Pickens county, Georgia, jail, and retained freedom until more than a year ago, when he paid a Christmas visit to his old Georgia home. Later he was pardoned from the Georgia prison.

90 New Generals for Italy.

Rome, June 4 (By A. P.).—Premier Mussolini has appointed 90 new generals. Five million lire will be appropriated annually to increase field indemnities, 50 per cent to officers and 150 per cent to non-commissioned officers.

GOV. SMITH HOST TODAY AT DAUGHTER'S WEDDING

Hundreds of Guests Arrive by Yacht, Plane, Train and Motorcar.

$350,000 IN PRESENTS

Albany, N. Y., June 4 (By A. P.).—Preceded by a fortune in gifts, hundreds of friends of Gov. Smith streamed into the city tonight for the marriage tomorrow of the governor's elder daughter, Miss Emily Smith, to Maj. John A. Warner, superintendent of State police.

Cardinal Hayes of New York will conduct the nuptial mass. Guests came to the capital by yacht, airplane, automobile and train. Fifteen hundred have been invited to attend the wedding, and 1,000 to the wedding breakfast at the executive mansion. Five private yachts came up the Hudson from New York.

The gifts received up to tonight filled the second and third floors of the executive mansion, and were estimated to be worth $350,000 or more. They included costly jewelry, 25 chests of silver and two carloads of furniture for the four-room house in which Mr. and Mrs. Warner will live. The wedding will be held in the Cathedral of the Immaculate Conception, and as the bride and bridegroom leave the building they will walk under an arch of swords formed by national guard officers.

George Brennan, of Chicago, is among the many politicians invited.

New, Lighter Fuel To Drive Dirigible

Berlin, June 4 (By A. P.).—Dr. Hugo Eckener, director of the Zeppelin Works, has announced that the new huge airship which is being built at Friedrichshafen will be driven principally by a newly discovered fuel, according to the Jena correspondent of the Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung. The new fuel is described as possessing the same specific gravity as air, thus greatly reducing its weight as compared with gasoline. It is said to be less liable to the danger of fire and to possess 20 per cent greater effectiveness than gasoline.

Although the purpose of the airship originally was for polar exploration, Dr. Eckener declared that it would not be used exclusively for that as a result of the recent German-French treaty modifying the restrictions placed on Germany's aircraft by the treaty of Versailles.

Sends Letter to Police, Beats Wife, Kills Son

Lansdale, Pa., June 4 (By A. P.).—Robert Norton Hill, 50, sent a special delivery summons by mail to the police early today, then killed his 20-year-old crippled son, beat in the skull of his wife, also a cripple, with a hammer and committed suicide. He was found in the cellar of his home. His wrists were slashed and he had fired a bullet through his brain. The wife is not expected to recover.

Vigorous Denial.

Atlantic City, N. J., June 4 (By A. P.).—Harry Thaw, Evelyn Nesbitt and Russell Thaw had dinner together tonight in Miss Nesbitt's apartment. Harry Thaw and Miss Nesbitt made vigorous denials that Russell had evaded a hotel bill in Chicago.

"Russell has not been out of Atlantic City since last January," said Miss Nesbitt. "He is a mere school-boy; he has never been to the Congress hotel in his life and he has never caused me or anybody else a moment's trouble."

Harry Thaw said that he had visited Miss Nesbitt and her son because of the distress occasioned to them by published accounts of a youth who was registered recently at the Congress as "

A MODERN MARRIAGE

An Absorbing Novel
By IDAH MCGLONE GIBSON

SYNOPSIS.

Kathryn Leonard, belle of the "new freedom" for women, having blocked the entry into her home of Elton Foss, hears a revolver shot. Foss' dead body is found by the police after Rodney Evans, secret husband of Kathryn, emerges from the shadows nearby. Evans arrested on suspicion tells Richard Starmount, his attorney, that he (Evans) has killed Foss. Evans' fingerprints are found on Kathryn's revolver, which he placed in Foss' pocket. As Kathryn, overcome by the tragedy, is being removed to a hospital, Starmount hears a familiar voice in the crowd at the curb. This incident and those which the latest revealed—a short, thick-set man seen near the scene of the murder; a young man who had asked Kathryn's maid for her hat; a confession and to strengthen his belief that his wife (Kathryn) is guilty. Starmount points, too, to Vernon Stedman, rich broker, with whom Foss quarreled bitterly on the day he was killed. The attorney induces Kathryn to write the story of her life for the daily newspapers, so as to sway public opinion. Kathryn writes how she met Elton Foss, how she tried to tell Evans her contempt for the marriage, how she determined to keep her marriage secret, Stedman's inability to give a complete alibi leads to the theory that he is trying to shield a woman. Kathryn admits that she destroyed her marriage certificate. The police enter Kathryn's room to obtain her fingerprints. Starmount's suspicion of Kathryn grows. Kathryn, star reporter, is surrounded by Kathryn's letters as to her marriage certificate. The trail still points to Stedman. Starmount is ready to sacrifice Kathryn to save Evans, her husband. The initials who married Kathryn, Kathryn writes how she tried to tell Evans her contempt for the marriage. Kathryn is urged by Kathryn to write her story to the South. Kathryn and Rodney are wed. Mrs. Evans writes in her story of defiance. Starmount receives telegrams of action of Kathryn's marriage by the justice of the peace.

CHAPTER XLII. The Soul Speaks.

WHEN Kathryn Evans refused to accuse her husband even to his lawyer Jim Kirby interposed pityingly: "It may be of some comfort, Kathryn, to know that we have run Vernon Stedman's alibi to earth. I'll tell you more about it this afternoon."

"Are you sure you saw no one about the door when you and Rod were bending over Foss' body?"

"No one at all, gentlemen. I must look you to excuse me. I am going to dress and go to Rod. He needs me more than he ever did."

"Please wait until afternoon," begged Jim Kirby. "An hour or two now will not make much difference, and if you have some good news tell him it will pay for his waiting."

"Oh, Jim, please don't get my courage up only to disappoint it."

"Don't worry, little woman. I think it is all going to come out right."

Starmount looked at Jim Kirby in surprise, but he thought he found there only a desire to comfort Kathryn.

"Have you seen the first installment of your story in this morning's paper?"

"It is not a mistake, Kathryn. Dick, give her those papers."

"You are sure it will help Rod?"

"I certainly am sure. The fact that you still believe in him and still love him will have a great effect on the minds of the readers. Jim himself will tell you that most murder cases are tried in the newspapers before they are in the courts."

"But, Jim, you understand, do you not, that in my manuscript I have told that after that time when I first saw Rod with Sada Fillmore we drifted further apart, only to come together again? I know now we both love each other better than life itself."

"At first I tried not to seem any different when Rod came to see me but he wouldn't let me. He would try to explain his actions to me and wanted me to tell him all about mine."

"I said to him one day: 'Don't you know that that is the one thing I wanted to avoid when I proposed our unique partnership? I'm not asking you to explain Sada Fillmore to me and certainly I shall not explain Elton Foss nor any other man to you.'"

"This, of course, infuriated Rod to such an extent that he went out, slamming the door, and I, to show my disdain, accepted the attentions of Elton Foss more and more often even though every time I did so I had to expect a worse quarrel than the last over it."

"You see, Jim, I have put all this in even though it might give what seems like a motive for Rod's alleged act."

"But you and Dick may use as much as you think best."

"Jim is not going to use any of that," said Dick decisively.

"Yes I am. I am going to use all of it. Do you realize what a fine argument it is for the conventional marriage?"

"Yes, of course I do, but I also realize that it will probably send Rod to the chair."

There was a low moan. Both men started for the bed. Kathryn had fainted.

"Let's get out of here. I can stand no more of this," Starmount said roughly.

He started for the door and Jim, picking up the last pages of Kathryn's manuscript, followed him, calling the nurse as he left.

When the men reached Fifth avenue they separated. Jim Kirby going toward the subway station and Dick hailing a taxi to take him to the jail. Although they both were going in the same general direction each evidently wanted to follow some personal theory which he was not ready to divulge to the other.

"Remember, Jim," were Starmount's last words, "you are not to publish that manuscript you have in your pocket until I see it."

As Starmount rode along in the taxi he could not help but wonder if his friend Rodney Evans had not killed Elton Foss.

Jim Kirby's words came back to him, when he said "Even you or I might shoot a man if we found he had insulted the woman we loved."

With this thought in his mind he greeted Rodney solemnly. Before Rodney could ask a question he said, "Rod, answer me as you would before the bar of God, did you kill Elton Foss?"

"Have they arrested Kathryn?" he asked quickly.

"No, she has practically been proved innocent. Those were not her fingerprints on the gun."

"Then there is no use for me to lie, Dick. I did not kill Elton Foss."

Beauty and You

A REMEDY FOR DANDRUFF.

By Viola Paris.

DANDRUFF or any sort of scale on the scalp is an unnecessary annoyance and is usually a sign of personal carelessness. Especially is it objectionable with bobbed hair, for the scale is easily visible through the short locks, and the frequent combings that the head receives cause an unsightly sprinkling of white on the collar or back of one's frock.

Complicated and expensive treatments are not required to restore the hair to health. In fact, there are several old-fashioned remedies that are as efficacious as they are simple.

One of these employs castor oil. (If the very thought of castor oil is more than you can bear, olive oil might be substituted in the same proportion. But the castor oil is preferable, and you can always use the kind from which the odor has been removed.)

To six ounces of castor oil are added two tablespoons of kerosene with a dash of bay rum to lessen the strong smell. This mixture should be applied to the scalp—not the hair—with a bit of absorbent cotton. Do it the night before, shampoo, and use the head in a towel for the night.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

THE PLEASANT TASK.

He would not do the thing called work.

Unless the task were pleasant. His duty must not bind andirk. Joy must be ever-present: And so he searched the city through To find the job he'd like to do.

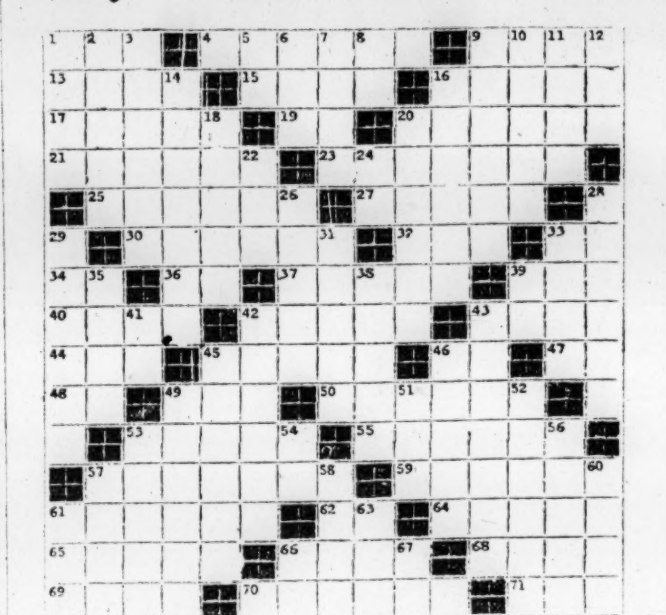

Now there's a chasm which divides Man's work from his playing. And one can't occupy both sides. Which goes without my saying: There is no job on earth today Which pleases one so well as playing.

The thing we really like to do Is seldom honest toiling. It's seeing irksome duties through Which keeps the kettle boiling. And if it's work, beyond a doubt, Somewhere it calls for courage stout.

And so from post to post he went, To find a job which suited. But everywhere in discontent Away from tasks he scooted. He wanted work which seems like play.

And that does not exist today. (Copyright, 1926, Edgar A. Guest.)

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS.

Questions pertinent to hygiene, sanitation, and prevention of disease, if matters of general interest, will be answered in this column. Where space will not permit or the subject is not suitable, letters will be personally answered, subject to proper limitations and where a stamped, addressed envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease. Requests for such service can not be answered.

HARMFUL DIETS.
WHEN McCollum and Simmonds were preparing to write their book, "Food, Nutrition and Health," they spent some time investigating eating habits. One day they lunched at a Y. M. C. A. cafeteria. They took a table near the food counter and spied on the girls as they passed by with their trays.

One had meat pie, stewed tomatoes, white muffins, and butter. A second had corn-beef hash, mashed potatoes, succotash, corn-bread and butter. A third, meat pie, raised biscuits, potato salad, and coffee. A fourth, beef croquettes, mashed potato, stewed tomatoes, bread, and butter. A fifth, stewed tomato, white flour muffins, corn-bread, butter, currant pie, and lemonade.

Knowing something of what people of like kind had had for breakfast and would have for supper, the authors went back to their desks and wrote: "Many people wonder why it is that so many men and women begin to look old at 40 to 50 years. Why it is that their bones become so brittle as to break easily and why their teeth are so poor that they decay early." The answer is: "People are not taking the right combinations of food."

To the same cause they also ascribe overtire at the end of the day's work, "restlessness in the evening," "evenings of excitement and entertainment rather than rest and self-improvement."

But the answer means even more than the charge. They say to avoid this list of ills modify the diet as follows:

"Eat approximately a quart of milk a day. Eat it in milk soups, cream vegetables, bread made with milk, puddings, custard, cottage cheese, butter, buttermilk, ice cream, cheese, and milk.

"Eat a liberal serving of cooked greens at least once every day. Eat a salad twice a day.

"Eat what you want after you have eaten what you should."

This advice classes the three above named groups as foods which should be eaten. It assumes that the appetite will crave a proper amount of meat, bread, vegetables, and fruit to supply calories, protein, minerals and vitamins needed in addition to those found in milk and the leafy salads and greens.

This explanation, however, while it applies generally, needs to be modified at times. For instance, in the colder belt sea foods and perhaps iodine salt should be added to the list of protective foods—those to be eaten because they are "wanted," rather than because they are "wanted."

In the winter and spring times the antiscorbutic fruits and vegetables are protective foods. However, fruits are pronounced "the most attractive in appearance and flavor. No other furnish so great a variety of flavors."

In a pellagra region Goldberger would class lean meat and yeast as protective foods. There are those who say that so much of the spring pains, neuralgia and rheumatisms are due to a slight beriberi tendency and that bran and whole-grain breads and cereals should also be on the list of protective foods, especially in the springtime.

RUBBER SOLES AND HEELS.

WIVES OF TOMORROW

By FRANCES McDONALD

The Witch Was Right!

DEAR MISS McDONALD—A short while ago I wrote you and you answered my letter. First, I wish to thank you very much indeed for the attention that you showed me and then I wish to thank you for your advice. (I wrote of the careless way my sweetheart received my devotion—and how indifferent he acted toward my love.)

I have followed your advice, Miss McDonald, with this result. You remember, you told me to give up showing him sugary attentions and give him a diet of sour. I have even done more. I have given him up entirely. However, I have consented to see him one night a week. I go out with others and now I am beginning to realize what a little fool I was in the first place. When I go out with others, he tells me he loves me so very much that he can't give me up. He knows exactly how I feel toward him. I make no secret of it. He swears he loves me now and I believe him because no matter how very curt and sarcastic I am to all his remarks on the subject, he still persists and says he doesn't care. He goes on further to say, "You once had a feeling for me, probably. I will make it come back." I discourage him time and time again, but all to no avail.

He does not go out with the other girl now and when I just smile at his talk of love when he takes me out, he tells me "Couldn't I take out another girl and have a good time, a girl that I care nothing about, I tell you. I can't go out with any one else because I love you." And all this in a few short weeks. And too late, too. For I really do not care now. I am sure of it.

At present he is trying out for scholarship that entitles him to one year's study in Paris. I am praying that he wins. Don't you think, Miss McDonald, that it will help both of us. I don't know what to do. Please help me, and thank you. You don't mind my writing to you a second time, do you, dear Miss McDonald? Thank you, again, and I sincerely hope you will tell me your version of the matter.

Miss McDonald, you don't know how much I want him to win so that he might go away and find out his own mind.

Glad indeed the magic advice worked, Wanda, dear. You didn't know I was a really-true witch, did you? Listen, Wanda, men are children. Did you ever know a child who would not be naughty and "act-up" when it knew that it could? The same with the very large and busy infants we call men. No woman ever weeps over a man if she really knows him. When the weeping begins it's a sign she's overlooked something—overfed or overcoddled him or sometimes neglected him. It's lots of fun really knowing a man—especially if you just love the way he acts, or the way he sulks, or the way he parts his hair. And knowing the man you love is your first job as a woman.

So while your man is studying for his scholarship, just you study him. He may be just the man for you—after you know him! You are the only one who can tell. So study him with care and write me as often as you wish. That's what the lady witch doctor is for—to spread the magic and spoil all the fun for the sheiks.

Girls Unable to Cook Called Uneducated

London, June 4 (By A. P.).—

Girls unable to cook an appetizing and palatable four-course meal are not educated in the real sense of the word, said Dr. Elizabeth Sloan Chesler before children of the Parents' association at Lady Maffrey's residence here.

"In my opinion," said Dr. Chesler, "dietetics and cooking should be compulsory in the education of boys and girls alike. Girls should be prepared to be good housewives as well as doctors, barristers, nurses, artists and journalists."

Persians Given Right To Wed Turk Women

Constantinople, June 4 (By A. P.).—

The abolition of a law in force for 50 years has given Turkish women a new right—that of marrying Persians. The former ban against Persians as husbands possibly was due to the fact that the Persians belong to the Shiite branch of the Moslem religion, while the Turks belong to the Sunnite branch. Certain former customs among the Persians, such as the system of trial marriages, were also repugnant to the Turks and probably led to the passage of the prohibitive law. They are still forbidden under the new civil code to marry any but Moslems, however, though Turkish men are free as of old to marry women of other religions.

"Sunday Eggs" Given To Church Treasury

Tifton, Ga., June 4 (By A. P.).—

A novel plan for solving the financial problems of rural churches has been inaugurated by Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Marchant. For the last two years the Marchants have been giving the proceeds of sales of all their "Sunday eggs" to the Oak Grove Baptist church. In addition they have planted half an acre in corn, which also will be devoted exclusively to the church.

From Easter Sunday, 1924, to Easter of 1925 the Marchants contributed 1,140 "Sunday eggs," which brought $28.50 into the church plate. From the half acre of corn, $18.50 has been turned over.

MODISH MITZI

Mitzi Picks an Umbrella While the Clouds Roll By

By Jay V. Jay

It's obviously impossible for Mitzi and Polly and Adelaide to wait for the silver lining to appear when they are wearing their newest hats, and it's equally clear that there's no taxi within hailing distance. Adelaide and Mitzi have acquired sailor hats as being quite the newest summer headgear, and will you notice, please, that Mitzi's has a bandeau under the crown in black, especially designed for bobbed heads? Polly's hat is even more subject to the harshness of the elements since it has a wide rim of lace. The crown—and that is what is so smart about it—is of felt. It is resourceful Mitzi who solves the problem.

Mitzi says there couldn't possibly be a better time to buy an umbrella than when the rain is falling, because then one is in just the depressed state of mind necessary. However, the variety and newness of the umbrellas have lightened the depression and taken enough time to let the sun come out again. The umbrellas are a sturdy 16 or 20 ribs and have handles of many kinds of ugliness. It's quite proper for an umbrella to be ugly. The crooked handle is shown again, made of lizard skin, as the stabby one is also. The carved head is of wood and other animal heads are shown in colored composition.

If You Plan to Make Jam Of Strawberries Do Not Delay Starting Too Long

WE have for today a number of request recipes, and a menu that is, if I remember correctly, to provide for the remains of our Thursday's boiled fowl. The fowl will, by this time, undoubtedly have become rather scarce and we may find it necessary to add something to round it out. There are several things that may be thus used to add quality to the meat, but as we shall have need of considerable of our space for our request recipes, I shall give only one recipe for chicken hash on toast. If any one has no fowl, and the recipe appeals to them, a can of boned chicken, selling for approximately 50 cents, may be used. Almost any meat to serve as a main course would cost as much as one tin of chicken, and the ingredients added to the hash are not expensive, therefore the tin of meat is the chief expenditure. With this dish, hot biscuits, and a salad are ample to provide out the evening meal.

A reader wishes a recipe for strawberry jam, which we are printing herewith. Strawberries steadily grow more plentiful and cheaper, but beware of the danger of waiting for their lowest point before buying them for preserving, lest you miss the best berries and defeat your purpose. There is a "low price—best berry" point, to be sure, but it is a difficult point to recognize, and for so brief a moment does it linger that unless we are wary, it will have passed and we will be buying Chicken Hash.

Remove the remainder of the chicken from the bones and cut it into very small pieces but do not run it through the meat grinder, as the meat will become a paste rather than small pieces. According to the number of persons to be served, add cooked rice until the bulk of the combination is adequate. To this combination add 1 cup canned pimiento, chopped, one small green pepper, chopped, one clove of garlic (if desired) mashed with the bowl of a spoon, two medium sized fresh tomatoes cut in small pieces, and a hard-boiled egg, also chopped. Mix these ingredients together well and place in an iron frying-pan with a little butter, and add pepper and salt to taste. A bit of celery chopped and added to the hash improves the flavor, but I would not suggest buying celery for the purpose. Chopped parsley may also be added, and if no celery is at hand, use celery salt. Cover the hash and allow it to simmer for from a half to three-quarters of an hour. After it begins to brown slightly add enough water, or preferably soup stock, to prevent its sticking to the bottom and burning. This hash may be served on toast or crackers, or with a border of creamed potatoes if a more substantial dinner is desired.

Our sardine plate, used as an appetizer, consists of two sardines on a small plate which is placed in turn on a service plate, and served with French dressing with garlic poured over them to give them flavor. Since we shall require pimiento for our hash (and the hash derives much of its flavor and attractiveness from this ingredient), a strip of pimiento may be placed over the two little fish, and a second egg hard-boiled to serve as a part of the appetizer, and placed in this slices beside the fish. Either a ripe or stuffed olive and a quarter lemon added to this plate make it complete.

The biscuit recipe included in the menu is long since familiar, which leaves us only date salad.

Date Salad.
Mix one cup of dates cut in small pieces and one-half cup of celery, one-half cup of walnuts and a sufficient quantity of mayonnaise dressing to hold the ingredients together. Serve on crisp lettuce leaves. This salad may be arranged some time before it is to be served and placed in the ice box to chill. The chicken hash may also be prepared in advance. If you remember we discussed the problem of hot-weather cookery, and the housekeeper advocated early morning marketing and early morning preparation of the food for the day. Wherever it is practicable we shall plan dishes that are adaptable to this arrangement.

Strawberry Jam.
Wash two boxes of berries thoroughly and dry on a towel. Boil one-half cup of water and two cups of sugar until it gets very sugary (more than stringy). Then put the berries into the sugary mixture. Cook rapidly exactly fifteen minutes. Then set aside to cool for an hour before putting it in glasses. Cook in a deep vessel so that it will not boil over. This recipe is an unusual one in that the berries remain whole. It is delicious and attractive when served.

String beans are still a luxury. Mrs. Howell, but as you have asked for a recipe for pickling them, I will print it and if you decide, on pricing the beans, that it would be well to wait a bit before putting them up, you can do so.

Pickled String Beans.
Remove the ends and strings from the beans but keep them full length. Cover with boiling water and cook about fifteen minutes; drain them and rinse them in cold water and drain again. Pour over them scalding hot vinegar enough to cover, and set aside in a cool place. These beans will be ready to serve in 24 hours, which was

FENNING DISCLOSES CHARGES FOR DEMOTION OF HEADLEY

Namara" would tell the commissioner that that was the case, the confidential memorandum said.

The traffic director said in his memorandum that he was fearful that he would not get Inspector Headley's cooperation when he took office. At one of the traffic director's first conferences he "realized" that Headley was "disappointed" at not getting the position himself.

Declares Signals Reversed.

The traffic director's memorandum contained mostly what informants had told him. One man had told him that Inspector Headley had said Mr. Eldridge was only "one member of the police department"; other people told him the inspector was going around saying "—"

Maj. Holcombe:— Ringgold Hart; —the traffic director.

The traffic director would go around and had his own pointed the wrong way on the streets; his signals on the wrong side of the street, he said, and even when he called Inspector Headley's attention to it, it was with difficulty that he got the inspector to do it.

The inspector was a power unto himself, said Mr. Eldridge. At the time of the Shrine parade he took umbrage, Mr. Eldridge said. "Namara" would tell the commissioner, because he felt he had been slighted by the police department and refused to have anything to do with the handling of traffic; he was in this mood when he is alleged to have with his own hands, torch and flashlight the night of the Knickerbocker disaster. Before he came into office, Mr. Eldridge said, he knew that the inspector had a practice of holding his own traffic permits and holding them until motorists who had incurred damages in accidents had been satisfied by the defending motorists.

Says Cooperation Impossible.

People told him that Inspector Headley had said he was going to do everything within his power to handicap the new director. With the background of enmity between them, Mr. Eldridge said he took office with every determination to get along with the inspector, but he found that he could not do it. There was not a precinct captain in the city who thought Inspector Headley knew anything about the handling of traffic, said Mr. Eldridge in his survey.

Of the inspector's successor, Mr. Fenning said the traffic director summed up three names to him—Capps, Brown, Stowell and Doyle. He took the first one on the list to Inspector Evans, who heartily approved him.

The director is not getting the cooperation, yet, though, according to a letter he wrote to Senator Capper, chairman of the Senate District committee, about two months ago, "I am traffic director in name only," he complained.

Denies Gore Reprimand.

Mr. Fenning said he had never ordered a reprimand for Officer Gore as the outgrowth of the policeman's challenging the right of his car to park in restricted area. He did tell Inspector Evans later in the day that Mrs. Fenning, who was in the car, told him that Gore did not act toward women as he hoped the policeman of the department would. Replacement of Dr. C. J. Murphy, police board surgeon, by Dr. Floyd J. McAllen was solely in order that the services of the eminent eye, nose and throat specialist might be obtained, he said, and of the six members on the board he thought the services of Dr. Murphy could be best dispensed with. The case of Sgt. Robert E. Lee was strictly a matter of the police and firemen's retirement board, he said.

Fenning Defends Bond Fees.

Commissioner Fenning stubbornly defended one of the most vulnerable points of the attack against him at the afternoon session. It was the self-bonding practice of his guardianship business which is now before the courts.

There was a tenseness among defense counsel as he went carefully through a recitation of this phase, and even the small body of spectators seemed to realize its import. Representative Henry St. George Tucker, Virginia, former president of the American Bar association, challenged him at the outset, but Representative Gorman, of Illinois, came to Mr. Fenning's aid and counsel.

It was virtually an all-day recitation by Mr. Fenning under the direction of his chief counsel, Frank J. Hogan, Representative Blanton, Texas, withdrew at a late hour of the hearing, explaining that he was compelled to attend to some of his other business and that he had to leave the city last night at 10 o'clock. His physician had directed that he take a rest, he said, and when committee members asked him when he would be back he said, nervously, "As soon as the people of Washington will let me alone." His telephone is kept ringing constantly at his office and at his home, he declared, but "I can not be the guardian for the people of Washington."

Blanton Near Exhaustion.

It was apparent that the Texan was on the verge of exhaustion. He asked the committee, however, to call him when it came to the cross-examination of Mr. Fenning, and if it came before he had to leave the city he would return to conduct it.

After that he asked the committee to call Representative Gilbert, of Kentucky, to take his place, and to ask Crandall Mackey, local attorney, to come in at the last and argue some of the legal phases.

With this as a preliminary to the day's proceedings, the hearing proceeded with Mr. Fenning resuming the stand and for five hours going through the various phases of his practice. Occasionally he was interrupted by committee members—Representative Yates, of Illinois, wanted to know about Mr. Fenning's ward in Wisconsin, for instance—but for the most part Mr. Hogan and the commissioner went along uninterrupted until the self-bonding phase was reached.

Mr. Hogan paved the way at this juncture for the subsequent introduction of the so-called rebate section of the District code, which Mr. Fenning contended prohibited him from giving his bond commissions to his wards. Mr. Hogan said that if this section does not act as a bar, the commissioner thought it did.

Says License Needed.

The section in question prescribes the manner in which insurance agents may do business, providing that no one "doing business" under its provision may receive a commission unless licensed in accordance with the section. The veterans' bureau argued before the District Supreme court in the test case on this phase that Mr. Fenning could not contend that his wards were "doing business" and therefore had to have a license to receive anything he wanted to give them.

Mr. Tucker said he wanted to see the section in question. He told Mr. Fenning he could not see the distinction between this practice and that which Mr. Fenning dropped back in 1915 after Auditor Herbert L. Davis had ruled it to be unacceptable before him.

The commissioner sought to draw a distinction pointing out that the former practice was that by which he drew a bonus on loans of his wards' money, while the bonding practice was not a profit on any of the wards' money. It is a case simply of his handling bonds which must be provided and which would cost the ward just as much as with any bonding company, he contended.

Regards Fee for Labor.

Representative Gorman asked the commissioner if he considered his 25 per cent commission on the bonds was for the manual labor in connection with their preparation or for the sale of the bonds. Mr. Fenning replied that he had "always considered" that the commission was for the labor rather than the sale.

He has testified before, and there has been other testimony, that the 25 per cent commission which he received was the regular commission given a solicitor for selling bonds.

Mr. Gorman then asked him if it were not a fact that this point is turning on a strictly civil proceeding before the courts, and both Mr. Hogan and Mr. Fenning replied in the affirmative.

Mr. Hogan in his argument before the court, however, declared that the auditor in recommending that Mr. Fenning be given no commission as guardian and required to pay the full premium on the bond, had sought to "indict, try and convict" Mr. Fenning under the fraud section. Maj. Davis G. Arnold, of the veterans' bureau, charged that the commissioner committed fraud in withholding his self-bonding practice from the auditor.

Says License Is Recorded.

In this connection Mr. Hogan pointed out yesterday, as he did before the court, that the fact that Mr. Fenning held solicitor's licenses was a matter of record both in the office of the register of wills and that of the insurance commissioner.

Asked why he did not bring his practice to the attention of the auditor, Mr. Fenning said that he had never seen any occasion to. There had never been any questioning of the practice until the investigations began, he said, and immediately the question was raised he directed the United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co. to hold up the payment of further commissions.

He said he had never heard of the United States Supreme Court's ruling in the Magruder-Drury case, which is contended interdicts his

What Price Health?

This little article deals with something you may have—Health. If you don't have it then you desire it more than wealth or social position—you'd give both to find it.

HEALTH—what price must you pay for this most important of all earthly possessions? It is the one thing that money can not buy.

Nature is lavish in bestowing her benefits, yet she seldom gives something for nothing. She believes that anything worth having is worth paying for—she always fixes a price. If we pay—she gives full measure and over.

Nature says, "Give me 15 minutes a day and I shall give you brighter eyes and a clearer skin. Not enough? Very well, add a body equipped with stronger and more elastic muscles that help to give a graceful, erect carriage. Still not enough? All right, your 15 minutes will buy health, a stronger heart and lungs, purer blood and better circulation. It will purchase better digestion, a more active liver and kidneys. Isn't that enough? Very well—then take a longer and more successful life!"

The price is—simple, enjoyable EXERCISE.

WASHINGTON AND THE SESQUICENT.

It may be stated as a general proposition that Washington needs no advertising. The stately beauty of its broad avenues, its imposing public buildings, its historic memorials have been advertised throughout the length and breadth of the land. Every school boy and girl knows of Washington, and most of them have an ardent desire to see their Capital.

Nevertheless it is a happy movement that has been started by the Washington convention bureau to invite patriotic, commercial and other organizations to take advantage of the opportunity to come to Washington at the same time they are attending the sesquicentennial exposition in Philadelphia. Assurances have been received from a score or more of these organizations that their delegations, groups ranging from 200 to 5,000, will visit Washington before their return home.

All of the principal railroads coming into Washington have seized the opportunity to advertise special rates to the sesqui with stop-over privileges in Washington, and it is expected that the summer months will see more thousands of visitors in the National Capital than ever before.

Support of the convention bureau's movement to have visitors to the Philadelphia exposition include Washington in their itinerary has been pledged by the Washington Board of Trade, the Chamber of Commerce, the Washington Real Estate board and other commercial organizations, and there can be no question that many citizens are giving their moral and active support to the bureau's efforts by inviting their friends from distant points to take in Washington on their trip to the exposition.

Every American who visits Washington learns that this is his city. He leaves here as a lasting friend, proud of the Capital and always interested thereafter in its welfare. It should be the aim of Washingtonians to induce every American to visit this city. If this could be accomplished there would be no further need for pleading with Congress to develop the Capital at a rate in keeping with the growth of the nation.

"REVENUE BILLS."

Again the question has been raised: What are "revenue bills" within the meaning of the Constitution? That instrument provides that all bills for raising revenue must originate in the House. Interpreting this provision, the House refused to permit the Senate to consider first the bills for adjusting foreign war debts and the bill for postal salaries. Now it is contended that certain sections of the amended farm bill before the Senate contain provisions that might come within the interpretation of "revenue bills" as adopted by the House.

Certain senators feel that the House has strained a point in its interpretation of the words "revenue bills," and that if the Senate should pass a bill carrying incidental references to revenue, the House might reconsider its interpretation of the matter.

At all events it appears that the Supreme Court, according to statements made by good lawyers, has held that the words "revenue bills" mean only regular revenue bills, and that those bills having reference incidentally to revenue do not come within the inhibition of the Constitution. This list of regular revenue bills would include appropriation bills and all bills wholly devoted to the raising of revenue for the general expenses of the government. In this class all tariff bills must fall, for they are primarily devoted to the raising of revenue.

This is an interesting point, but in practice it is more or less academic. Differences of opinion have not yet interfered seriously with the regular business of Congress. Each bill must stand on its own merits.

CHARLES F. HUMPHREY.

Maj. Gen. Charles F. Humphrey, U. S. A., retired, who died yesterday, was one of those boys who responded to Lincoln's call early in the "sixties" and who subsequently arose to one of the highest grades in the United States army.

Charles F. Humphrey was born in New York State, near the Pennsylvania line, and went to Buffalo to enlist as a private in response to Lincoln's call. He won his commission and rose through the various grades to that of major, which was his rank at the outbreak of the Spanish-American war. It was through his efficiency that the American troops were not compelled to sail without their supplies; for in taking charge at Fort Tampa he was confronted with no less than nine miles of freight cars which could not be unloaded without manifests. "Damn the manifests; get some axes," was his terse command. The red tape was cut, the cars were opened and the food and equipment were successfully landed at Siboney.

It was in that Cuban port that conflict of authority arose between Col. Humphrey and Col. Roosevelt, of the Rough Riders. Col. Roosevelt demanded that his men be first supplied, only to be answered by Humphrey that he would place Roosevelt under arrest if he persisted in making the demand out of turn. After Roosevelt became President he refused for some time to appoint Humphrey quartermaster general. A mutual friend finally said to him, "Mr. President, I thought you were too good a man to allow a small grudge to prevent you from giving to the army of the United States the best quartermaster general who could be chosen from among all the officers available for that appointment." Roosevelt rose to the occasion and promptly made the appointment.

Gen. Humphrey served in the Boxer campaign and in the Philippines before reaching the grade which he held up to the time of his retirement. Throughout his career he was noted for his efficiency and energy, and to him is due the credit for most of the improvements in the care of the doughboys in every army post in the land. There was never a more popular man in the United States army than Charles F. Humphrey.

Doctors are people we expect to take away the penalty of our indiscretions.

IS TOM TAGGART SLIPPING?

The result of the Democratic State convention in Indiana, which nominated for the United States Senate a 38-year-old attorney, Albert Stump, of Indianapolis, to oppose Senator Watson in the November election, will probably cause many of the older politicians to ponder deeply. Is Tom Taggart, veteran leader of Hoosier Democracy, slipping? Undoubtedly the nomination of Stump was contrary to the plans that Taggart and his followers had formulated. They wanted John E. Frederick, but in spite of their maneuvering and Taggart's last-moment desperate effort as temporary chairman to check the swing to Stump, the Indianapolis lawyer was named. Stump had run second to William A. Cullip in the recent Democratic primary, but in the convention on the first ballot he was behind both Frederick and Cullip. On the second ballot he took second place behind Frederick, and on the third there was a break to him, and he was nominated on the fourth despite the efforts of the Taggart men.

Stump had no organized backing in the primary campaign. He made a one-man canvass, touring the State in an automobile and acting as his own chauffeur. His victory over the hitherto impregnable Democratic machine is a good example of his earnestness and determination to win. He has the fighting spirit of a world war veteran, and although a newcomer in politics, has shown an aptitude for the game that has surprised the older leaders.

"Tom" Taggart has rarely known defeat in his own party in Indiana since he entered politics many years ago. For a long time he has been a power in national politics. He was one of that famous triumvirate at national conventions—Murphy, Sullivan and Taggart—that always had to be reckoned with. Murphy and Sullivan have gone the way of all flesh, but Taggart remained to be one of the great figures of the Madison Square Garden convention in 1924. It is not strange, therefore, that the naming of Albert Stump on Thursday will cause many politicians to wonder.

The best way to insure a successful career for your boy is to select the right dad for him.

JUGOSLAVIA'S DEBT.

The House has before it the settlement of the debt of Yugoslavia, and doubtless will ratify it without delay.

Jugoslavia is the kingdom of the Serbs, Croats and Slovenes. On December 29, 1913, after the close of the war, the union of the Croats and Slovenes with Serbia was proclaimed, and the first ministry formed.

The total area of Yugoslavia is only about 96,134 miles, and the population about 12,000,000. It is an agricultural country almost entirely. This kingdom borrowed $26,126,574 from the United States during the world war. Interest to December 15, 1922, amounted to $4,073,423, making a total of $30,199,997. The kingdom purchased of the United States surplus war supplies, which, with interest, amounted to $28,336,811. The total debt amounts to $62,850,000.

The agreement provides for annual payments ranging from $200,000 in 1926 to $2,490,210 in 1937. No interest is charged until June 15, 1937, after which date interest will range from one-eighth of 1 per cent to 3½ per cent. The kingdom is allowed 62 years to pay the debt.

Man spends half his life in the hole, and the other half trying to get a little ball in the hole.

MUSCLE SHOALS.

In spite of the nation-wide interest in the development of power for industrial purposes and for the manufacture of atmospheric nitrogen at Muscle Shoals, the bill for the settlement of the long-pending quarrel between conflicting interests has little chance for legislation at this session.

In the Senate the bill, which was reported from the joint committee, after careful inquiry as to its best plan for disposing of the power developed by the dams, is in charge of Senator Deneen, who was chairman of the joint committee. Senator Deneen has not abandoned hope for action during the present session, but he will make no attempt to secure consideration for the measure pending the disposition of the French debt settlement and the farm relief bill.

In the House the bill, which is a duplicate of that pending in the Senate, is on the Union calendar, from which it may be called only under a special rule. Inasmuch as the House has twice passed bills for the settlement of the Muscle Shoals problem, only to have its action nullified by the failure of the Senate to act, Mr. Morin, who reported the bill and has charge of it there, is indisposed to make a move to secure consideration until the Senate shall have taken the initiative.

The report of the joint committee recommends the acceptance of the bid of the associated Southern power companies, now organized as the Muscle Shoals Fertilizer Co. and the Muscle Shoals Power Distributing Co. According to Representative Kearns, of Ohio, who was most active in opposing the proposal to turn the project over to the Ford interests, the recommendation of the special committee will meet the approval of a majority of the House if the opportunity to vote can be secured.

Representative Morin will ask the rules committee for a special rule for the consideration of the bill, after a consultation with his associates on the joint committee, as soon as there is a glimmer of hope for action in the Senate.

Love may lead a man to the altar, but it takes a sublime friendship to make him say later: "Let's go camping."

THE DISTRICT MILK BILL.

The House has passed the bill to regulate in the District of Columbia the traffic in, sale and use of milk bottles, cans, crates and other containers of milk and cream, and "to give protection to milk dealers against unfair competition through the use of their property by unauthorized persons, and to protect the public against fraud and deception." Another purpose of the bill is to aid the health department of the District of Columbia in safeguarding public health.

Under the provisions of the bill persons and firms distributing milk and cream may have their trade-mark blown in the bottle and file with the clerk of the District court a description of the name or device; and whoever uses these marked bottles without authority shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and be subject to a fine. The bill has been favorably reported to the Senate.

With his courage, daring and skill, Mus-solini would have made a wonderful ball player, except that he'd want to bat all the time.

SHADE TREES OF THE CAPITAL.

In a letter to The Post commending the editorial in which the "planting of a tree for every tree cut down" on the streets of Washington is advocated, Miss Marie Clotilde Redfern urges that the superintendent of trees and parking replant the same variety as those removed. Miss Redfern appeals particularly for the "lovely maples" which were removed from Seventeenth street, and would much prefer that variety to the pin oaks which have been extensively used on some of the streets of the city.

The arboreal decoration of Washington's streets, especially in the residential districts, has caused delight to thousands of visitors and has brought showers of praise upon the heads of those responsible for the selections. At one time the American Linden was a prime favorite, and so many were planted that the sturdy old Scotchman, William Smith, then superintendent of the Botanic garden, took great delight in bragging that Washington had more miles of streets "Unter den Linden" than were embraced in the celebrated "strasse" of Berlin which bore that name.

But the American Linden, which is another name for the basswood, while a rapid grower, is soft, and its limbs are brittle. It breaks easily, and many of the finest specimens were badly damaged, after they had attained their growth, by every windstorm. The same is true of the soft, or silver, maple. These trees, when first introduced in the Washington streets and avenues, were a pride and delight to visitors; so much so, in fact, that the park authorities of several Scottish cities appealed to Mr. Smith and through him secured thousands of saplings which were planted in the parks of Edinburgh and other cities in Scotland. But following every visitation of high wind the streets in which the soft maples grew were covered with large branches, and the beauty of the trees was destroyed. Also their habit of sending their roots along the surface directly under the sidewalks causes those pathways to heave and become dangerous for pedestrians. The silver maple and the linden are consequently taboo and are no longer planted.

Pin oaks and the "maiden hair," or Japanese gingko, had a vogue for a time and are still used, especially the gingko, in some of the narrower streets. But Superintendent Clifford Lanham has come to the conclusion that the best varieties for Washington are the red oak, Norway maple and American elm, and these will be used to replace any which may be removed in the work of widening the city's highways.

As to the future course of tree planting along the widened sections of Connecticut avenue, the commissioners have not, thus far, ordered preparations made for the replacement of the trees which are to be cut down. The widening is being done under a specific appropriation by Congress, and that act fails to provide for trees.

It is hoped that the commissioners will not permit this oversight to influence them in the matter of supplying a "tree for every tree cut down."

The immigration quotas of Finland, Hungary, Luxembourg and the free city of Danzig were exhausted at the end of April. The principal sources of immigration thus far this year are Great Britain, France and Italy.

The Worst Story I Heard Today—By Will Rogers

The best Ladies' Joke I heard today was told to me by Irene Rich, the Movie Lady. Irene and I used to work in the Films together in the old days before they found out what was the matter with them. Then I got out and Pictures have prospered ever since.

Here are a couple that Irene told me when I saw her in Los Angeles lately.

"I was engaged to a girl to come in and do some extra work. She was, I imagine, rather English."

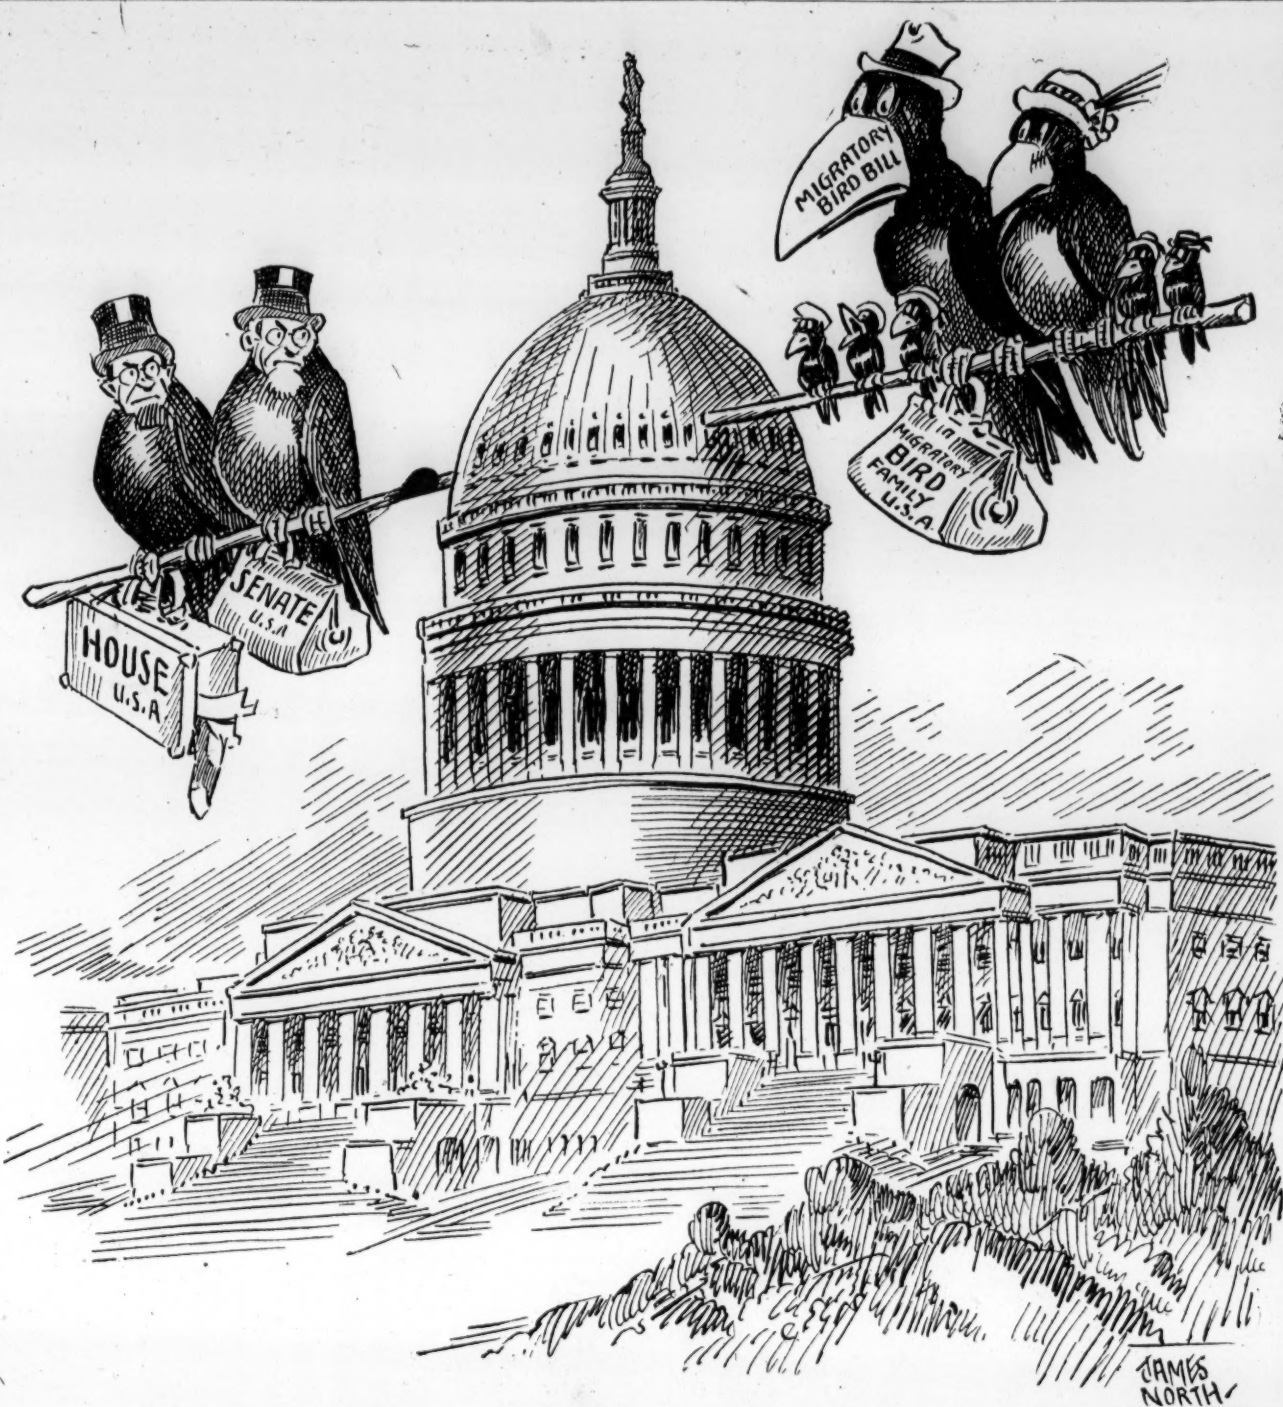

"What do you charge a day?" I asked her.

"Well, mum," was the reply, "I charge five dollars if I eat myself and four-fifty if you eat me."

Another one happened to Irene when she was out on location one time. She wandered over to where an old colored woman was bathing her baby. She noticed the water was pretty hot, and she asked the old lady, "How can you tell when the Water is the right temperature?"

"Well, I Jen" puts him in. If he turns red, it's too hot; if he turns blue, it's too cold."

PRESS COMMENT.

Russian Cavalry.
Seattle Times: Word comes from Russia that the choicest variety of cavalry is more plentiful now than at any time since the beginning of the world war. This is taken as evidence that unfortunate Russia is again getting back into the capitalist class.

Conditional.
Albany News: A scientist declares that the earth will be overcrowded within three generations. It will if they keep on making automobiles and if drivers and pedestrians become more careful.

At Odds.
Altus (Okla.) Plain Dealer: The average college graduate is quite willing to begin at the top and give the firm the advantage of his education. But the firm usually isn't.

Quiet Sundays.
Louisville Times: To go to the country nowadays for a quiet Sunday select your airplane carefully and make it a nonstop flight.

Saul's Gospel.
Brooklyn Eagle: Saul of Tarsus became Paul on his way to Damascus. But when he preached in that town it was a gospel of peace unpunctuated with bomb explosions. He could never have foreseen the incident of the French occupation.

John D.'s Profile.
Detroit News: Considering the vast publicity he has given it, there is something in the Toledo Blade's suggestion that Mr. Rockefeller's profile belongs on the rock.

Golf and Baseball.
Louisville Courier-Journal: Sport history proves that once a ball-player hits a golf ball for a 250-yard drive straight down the fairway he is ruined forever for baseball purposes.

Learning to Drive.
Ohio State Journal: Experience, while not succeeding with all her pupils, is undoubtedly the best teacher we have and probably it would make for the public peace and safety in a large way if every young person could have three or four comparatively minor but none the less painful accidents the first week he or she is permitted to drive the car.

Motor Statistics.
Indianapolis News: An automobile statistician has figured that the United States produces 30 times as many cars for every man employed in the motor industry as Europe does, showing how the home silver assemblers are booming things.

Making Arithmetic Easy.
Baltimore Sun: Now that a bright professor has invented a simple device with which one may add and multiply, divide and extract square roots at home, the romance of numbers fades even more completely.

What will the average citizen know of the mystic laws of arithmetic when he does his figuring mechanically? But the said mystic laws, one imagines, are already honored at a distance. No one has ever counted the people who can explain the reason for that diagonal string of multiplications and subtractions which constitutes "long division," but the chances are that they are as few as they are inconspicuous.

Bobbed Hair and Brains.
New York Times: Something like a war, it is reported, has started in the German town of Jena, and it is between the women who bob their hair and those who don't. The interesting feature of the struggle is the fact that the bobbers, content

Village Statesmanship

By GLENN FRANK

ONE fatal weakness in our consideration of the problem of leadership is that we usually think of it in terms of large affairs only.

We seem to go on the assumption that great leadership must have at least a nation, and preferably a world, for its playground.

But the fact is that national leadership is largely conditioned by village leadership.

What happens at the top in our national life can be nullified by what happens at the bottom.

We cannot achieve a unified and efficient nation out of slipshod and ill-organized towns and villages.

Before we can boast national pride, national sense, national conscience, and national will, we must arrive at community pride, community sense, community conscience and community will.

And the men of the small towns of America have not yet answered the challenge to leadership, the call to village leadership.

A Western college some time ago sent a questionnaire to the mayors of towns of three hundred to three thousand inhabitants in three Western States.

"What do you think your town needs most?" the mayors were asked.

There were sixty-four demands for public improvements. Only eight mayors asked for better public buildings. Only fifteen mayors asked for sewer systems, although eighty-one of the towns had no means of sewage disposal. Only fifteen mayors asked for pavements, although sixty of the towns had no pavements. Only six mayors asked for water systems, although ten of the towns had no water system. Only ten mayors, out of one hundred and thirty-five, asked for good roads. Nine mayors asked for new hotels, and a scattering few asked for better walks, schools, parks, lights, fire prevention, hospitals and the like.

There were one hundred and fifty-seven demands of a material nature. Business needs figured largest. Ninety-three commercial projects were mentioned. Sixteen mayors wanted factories and the vitalizing effect of their payrolls on the business life of their town. And so on.

There were thirty-four demands for intellectual, moral or social improvements. Nine mayors asked for wholesome amusements for the youth of their towns. Six mayors asked for libraries, four for churches and two for ministers. Only one suggested the need of "moral influences" and only one ventured to suggest the need of "intellectual development."

As one studies this report in detail it hardly suggests that the American small town is breeding leaders with vision, comprehensive purpose, technique and application.

If we could realize the dignity and importance of village statesmanship, if small town councils would look upon themselves as committees of efficiency engineers in a large social sense, whose duty is the administration of the common town life as an effective social unit, many perplexities we are now placing on the shoulders of national leadership would be handled at their source.

with claiming that shortened hair makes them look younger and handsomer, also insist that they have better brains than their rivals, as mentality is distributed among the feminine residents of the town. That pretence, naturally, is refuted with bitterness by the conservatives of Jena. In the interest of sport and excitement, why not start an inquiry here on that point? It could be argued endlessly without reaching a conclusion, and therefore has in it the makings of a very pretty quarrel.

Poor Movies.

New York World: Save for an occasional exception our movies are almost uniformly bad; that is, they are dull, vacuous and without sense. In literature they would correspond not to good fiction, but to the cheapest and most improbable stuff purporting to deal with the Wild West and so-called high life. The situations are incredible, the motivation is so false as to be ludicrous, the characterization is almost nonexistent. Save for protagony, which is invariably good, they have nothing to recommend them. Yet there seems to be little protest. Now and then a critic makes caustic comment, but the rank and file of movie-goers seem to think that if the moral tone is impeccable then the esthetic appeal doesn't matter.

The General Federation of Women's Clubs seems to be able to direct an organized effort with considerable effectiveness. Its members are women of taste. It would be interesting to see whether, if it undertook a campaign, it could effect an appreciable change in the public demand for quality. The experience might be worth trying.

American Advisers.

The Baltimore Sun: Prof. Kemmerer's call to Poland is one more example of America's reputation as the home of sound financial advice. His work in Colombia and Chile has made him known to a section of the world that hears little of Princeton university, where he is professor of economics and finance, and now he and his associates are to tackle the economic problems of a new European country.

Other Americans in much the same category are numerous. One thinks of the past work of Shuster and the present mission headed by Millsap in Persia, the duties of Jeremiah Smith in Austria, the achievements of Americans of the Dawes commission, the work of President Goodnow in China.

Going Some.

Indianapolis News: When Mexican troops go to the rescue of Americans, international friendship has reached a sublime height.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

The French Debt.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: During the proceedings of the House on the French debt there was not one member who found himself inspired to rise in his place and speak in the following vein:

"This bill involves our getting nearly $7,000,000,000 in return for less than $3,500,000,000 furnished France for war purposes. The money was furnished to France according to a statute for the purpose of more effectively providing for the national security and defense and prosecuting the war by establishing credits in the United States for foreign governments. It was furnished in aid of a common object for which France had fought for nearly three years before we came into the fight. Of her sons France lost 1,500,000; of ours we lost 100,000. In her homes and lands France suffered devastation and horrors the like of which we were not called on to endure. This country is nearly three times as great as France in population and ten times greater in wealth. During the years that France was fighting we were fighting and patting and hesitating about going into the war. Our delay prolonged the war and nearly ruined France."

"To me it seems not only indecent to extort double the amount that was advanced but outrageous under the circumstances that France should pay us anything. By insisting on this payment we are breaking France, our traditional friend, to whom we owe our national birth, without whose aid we could not have prevailed in the world war, less generously than we did Mexico or Spain when they had fought against us and were our conquered enemies."

"This debt turns the people of France from friends and allies into our tributaries. To insist on its payment, under the circumstances, is not only unjust but is spiritually immoral."

"I shall, therefore, vote against this settlement."

Nobody, however, made any such unbusinesslike suggestions. The bill passed. The vote was 235 "Yea," 112 "Nay," 83 not voting. Those voting "Yea" regarded the settlement as expedient. Those voting "Nay" regarded the settlement as too generous to France.

A Farmer's Appreciation.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Permit me to congratulate you on the concise, lively statements embraced in your editorials pertaining to important farm problems.

I have followed your editorials on the agricultural questions of the day for quite some time. I have made farm management my life work. Naturally I have studied the problems in a minute manner. After 20 years of dirt farming I am more than satisfied with my choice of vocation.

If there is any professional or industrial occupation so intensely in need of ability to perform, based on expert knowledge, as farming, I don't know of it.

Your articles display interest and wisdom that is very creditable to you. Agriculture is the life-blood of the nation. If this life allowed to become thin as water the foundation of the government will surely become enfeebled.

DE VALIN NAVAL COURT SILENT ON ONE CHARGE

Fails to Announce Ruling Involving Rum Withdrawals From Hospitals.

CLEARED ON DRUNK COUNT

Norfolk, Va., June 4 (By A. P.). Capt. Charles M. De Valin, commandant of the Naval Hospital at Portsmouth, was acquitted today by a court-martial of charges of drunkenness at a dance, authorizing improper use of a government motor truck and having liquor in his possession at the hospital.

The court, however, made no announcement as to its findings on a specification alleging he had caused 5 1/2 quarts of liquor to be withdrawn from the Naval Hospital stores for beverage purposes. Official confirmation could not be obtained as to whether this action meant an adverse verdict with respect to the one count.

The court, which late yesterday returned a sealed verdict, heard conflicting testimony of naval officers, much of it centering on a Halloween party at which Capt. De Valin attended, costumed as a Scotch bagpiper.

The specification on which the court failed to announce its finding was included under the blanket charge of conduct prejudicial to good order and discipline. Under navy regulations it is the custom of courts-martial to announce immediately their findings if the result is an acquittal.

The court-martial, composed of rear admirals and captains, adjourned this afternoon, after signing the record and its verdict. It will meet at the command of Secretary of the Navy Wilbur at which time the official announcement of the verdict will be made. Members of the court returned to their respective stations tonight.

The specific charge on which the court-martial failed to announce its decision was that Capt. De Valin caused to be withdrawn from stores at the Naval Hospital approximately 6 pints of whisky and 2 quarts of champagne during the period of October 14 to October 21, 1925, inclusive.

Army Captain Convicted

Omaha, Neb., June 4 (By A. P.). Capt. W. B. Allen, Seventeenth infantry, Fort Crook, was found guilty of illegal possession of liquor and of taking liquor to a military reservation by an army court-martial tonight after four hours deliberation.

The penalty imposed was a reprimand and restriction to the post for a period of six months. Allen, with Capt. James W. Arnold, was arrested May 18 by Homer Banner, Federal agent. The men were granted separate trials. They pleaded that they were victims of a frame-up and that their constitutional rights as army officers were violated by their arrest. Capt. Arnold will be tried next by the military court.

Preacher Convicted Of Fraud by Mail

St. Louis, June 4 (By A. P.). The Rev. William E. Rutledge, 64, editor of the Preachers' Magazine, was found guilty by a Federal court jury late today on three of four counts charging use of the mails to defraud in promotion of the Economy Oil Co. He sold $258,000 in stock to 1,500 clergymen and 500 laymen throughout the United States. Each charge is punishable by a maximum of five years in prison and a fine of $1,000.

PRISONERS FRUSTRATE JAIL BREAK ATTEMPT

"I'll get away next time," Jasper angrily told Maj. Peak. "I'd killed Branagan if I'd had my way and we could've got away with it this time."

The five prisoners, led by Jasper, had planned to overcome the guard, climb the rafters to the roof and break a hole in the heavy glass skylight, and use their bed clothes as a rope to lower themselves outside the jail as far as it would reach and drop to the ground. They probably would have injured themselves had they succeeded in their effort, Maj. Peak said.

C. H. Greenwalt Weds Miss du Pont

Special to The Washington Post. Wilmington, Del., June 4.—St. John's Protestant Episcopal church, Wilmington, was the scene of one of the most important weddings of the season today, when Miss Margaretta Lamont du Pont, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Irene du Pont, became the bride of Crawford Hallock Greenwalt, son of Dr. and Mrs. Frank L. Greenwalt, of Philadelphia.

Miss du Pont is the second daughter of the head of the Du Pont company and prominent in society in this city, New York and Philadelphia. The couple have known each other since childhood. She made her debut in 1921.

SENATE CANDIDATES END IOWA CAMPAIGN

Brookhart and Cummins Ask Votes Over Radio; Primary to Be Held Monday.

Davenport, Iowa, June 4 (By A. P.).—The radio tonight brought to Iowa voters the final speeches of the two candidates upon whom chief interest centers in Monday's primary election—Senator A. B. Cummins, who seeks renomination, and Col. Smith W. Brookhart, who was unseated by the United States Senate recently, and is bidding for reinstatement at the polls.

Brookhart declared that upon his nomination hinged any possible action by Congress on farm relief measures, while Senator Cummins appealed for votes on his long record in the Senate, his present activities on behalf of agriculture, and his party regularity.

The third candidate for the Republican senatorial nomination, Howard J. Clark, of Des Moines, will make his final campaign speech tomorrow from the same station.

MAJ. GEN. C. F. HUMPHREY DIES IN HOSPITAL AT 82

Services Tuesday for Winner of Congressional Medal in Indian Fight.

INTERMENT IN ARLINGTON

Maj. Gen. Charles F. Humphrey, retired, former quartermaster general, died in Walter Reed hospital yesterday, where he had been a patient for several months. Funeral services will be held from St. Thomas' Episcopal church Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Burial will be in Arlington National cemetery.

He was born in New York September 2, 1844; entered the army as a private in Company E, Fifth artillery, March 17, 1863, and was appointed a second lieutenant May 8, 1866. He became a captain in the quartermaster corps in 1879, and served in that corps until July 1, 1907, when he was retired at his own request after 40 years' service, being quartermaster general from October 6, 1901, until his retirement.

He was awarded the congressional medal of honor for voluntarily and successfully conducting a party rescuing an abandoned howitzer and two galling guns in face of heavy fire from Indians at Clearwater, Idaho, July 11, 1877.

His wife, two daughters, Mrs. Percy L. Harley and Miss Juanita Humphrey; five sons, Col. Evan H. Humphrey, stationed at the War College; Col. Charles F. Humphrey, Jr., Atlanta, Ga.; Maj. Marion B. Humphrey, U. S. M. C., on the U. S. S. Pittsburgh, and Lieut. Joseph D. Humphrey, U. S. M. C., Parris Island, S. C., and Julian F. Humphrey, merchant marine service, survive.

Gen. Humphrey's residence in this city was in the Wyoming.

PINK SALMON

No doubt you have seen the many advertisements in various newspapers, featuring the variety of canned salmon labeled pink. Since Red Alaska (canned) salmon has reached such a high price, many people are doing without canned salmon. But we suggest the trial of "Auto" brand Pink Salmon which we sell. Specify "Auto" brand salmon to get the variety we are suggesting. Scarcity of Alaska Red makes its price so high. Plenty for all demand makes a low market on "Pink," which is really a salmon trout. Something of Importance to You About Oranges

As the calendar changes, so also does our source of supply for Oranges. For the past two months we have supplied you with those wonderfully fine, large Florida Valencia Oranges. Now the time has arrived when the season is near its close and the crop practically picked and marketed, so this orange will not be again available in our stores until next Spring.

So Now We Turn to California. The variety known as Navels are, of course, a Winter product, and the season for Navels is over. But California produces as a Summer market crop the "California Valencia," and we have received three carloads to start off with. Contrasted with this year's crop of Valencias from Florida these California Valencias run more to smaller sizes.

But you will find these Californians to be thin-skinned and rich in juice and most delicious in flavor—in fact, they are considered by many the most tasty of all oranges. California Valencias are better peeled and sliced—but good any way you serve them.

Prices are moderate, so why not eat oranges all Summer.

COLLYER PICKS BRALEY

Boot to Boot May Stay In Front

Only Five Entered in Rich Race; Sarazen Belmont Choice.

Handicapper Selects Thirteen Sixty in Fairmont Stake.

By BERT E. COLLYER.

DERBY day. Col. E. B. Bradley is going to trot out his second string 3-year-olds at Latonia in the $25,000 classic and endeavor to beat a small field in the mile and one-half event. Too bad that Bubbling over can't start, but the odds are never mind as BAGENBAGGAGE and BOOT TO BOOT are likely to run one-two and don't be surprised if BOOT TO BOOT stays in front all of the way.

"Pop" Applegate, who spends sleepless nights figuring out new angles, has sent Clyde Van Dusen over to Fairmount with THIRTEEN SIXTY. This will be a starter in the $5,000 Illinois stakes and if she does not get home in front it will be because she broke a leg before the wire was reached. Is this good enough for you?

The Suburban handicap is the big event on the Metropolitan circuit. It will be decided over the Belmont Park course and among the stars scheduled to line up at the barrier is SARAZEN. Just watch the "Big Train" more closely, for Mackenzie Stein has a vacation from court and will be on hand to see that "SILKY SARA" is on his good behavior.

When "Roth" is wagging the bookies know that they have a battle on their hands.

Out at Aurora the chief attraction is the Exposition Colony handicap. This will bring the best handi-capped performers in the course to the barrier. It is a "B" race, but if CROSS BOW runs to his form he will be mighty hard to beat.

Over in Canada race patrons will journey to Thorncliffe park to witness the running of R. J. Mackenzie Memorial handicap and six other well filled events. The feature is a $10,000 affair but GOLDEN BILLOWS may come through with victory, Ye Weckum.

BALTIMORE GUNNER LEADS FIELD AT BENNING TRAPS

Fawsett Tops Washington Entrants

Pennsylvanians Turn in Score of 98 Out of Possible 100.

Singles and Distance Handicaps Scheduled Today.

IN spite of a high wind and a stiff rain that blew into the faces of the shooters, scores in the first day's events of the Maryland-District of Columbia trapshooting championship tournament at the Benning traps yesterday were relatively good.

Toppling the field in the first 100 targets of the State singles championship race, the most valued and highly-prized event of yesterday's program, were two out-of-town shooters, John Eschelman, of Lancaster, Pa., and Steve Crothers, of Pennsylvania State champion. Crothers' score of 98 out of 100 was two better than that of his fellow qualifier.

However, neither Eschelman nor Crothers are eligible for the championship, so the honors of leading the first half of the event go to R. Lee, of Baltimore, with a score of 95. Right behind Lee is Clifford C. Fawsett, local veteran and winner of the State title in 1922, with a score of 94.

PRESSING these two leaders were nine others with scores of 89, which makes the event still anybody's race, a good score in today's 100-target final will give any one a victory. Those who scored 88 yesterday were Rutherford, Eyer, sr., Roschberry, Morgan, Blunden, Powell, Loeve, Waters and Cheston.

In addition to leading the singles shooters, Farrell also led the field in the doubles event, cracking 44 out of 50 birds. This gave him a combined score of 142 out of the 150, which won for him the Hotel Hamilton trophy, offered to the high gun for the day's shooting.

In the State doubles event Cheston and Billmyer tied for first honors with scores of 42, the former taking the decision in the shoot-off.

The final 100 targets in the singles championship will be held this morning, starting at 9:30 o'clock, while in the afternoon the distance handicap events will take place. A number of valuable trophies have been offered to the winners in this last-named event, a suitable prize going to the leader in each event from 16 yards up to 23 yards.

TO BROADCAST PLAY.

Prize Winning Arts Club Production to Be Sent on Air.

The prize-winning play in the annual contest conducted by the Arts club of Washington will be broadcast tonight by Station WRC with the original cast that produced the play last week. The radio presentation will be under the direction of Clifford Brooke, director of the National Theater Players. The prize-winning drama is entitled "On the Dark Road" and was written by Edith Ogden Heidel and was originally produced under the direction of the dramatic committee of the Arts club. The cast that will be heard in "On the Dark Road" will include Anne Ives, Maudie Howell Smith, Maurice Jarvis, J. Martin Scranage, John S. Bryan and Robert De Grange. The play is scheduled to broadcast at 9:30 o'clock. The musical portion of WRC's entertainment will be featured by the fifth of the series of Kitt Hours of Music, to be broadcast from the studios of the Homer L. Kitt Piano Co., and a joint program, to be presented in New York city, by the Hardman quartet, the Ray-O-Vac Comedy Twins and Bob MacGregor.

Slayer Is Indicted; Faces Court Today

Thomas B. Brown, 46 years old, a real estate operator, will be arraigned this morning before Justice Stafford in criminal court on a charge of murder in the first degree—the grand jury having returned an indictment against him yesterday. The indictment is in nine counts, and charges that Brown shot and killed Miss Frances Voegelé, 35 years old, of the Olympia apartments, Wednesday. The woman was shot to death at Fourteenth and Euclid streets northwest.

OUTING DATE SET.

Chamber of Commerce Event Is Scheduled for September.

The house committee of the Washington Chamber of Commerce decided yesterday that the annual outing of the organization would be held September 19 at the Congressional Country club. The tentative program calls for a golf tournament in the morning and afternoon, together with a variety of other sports events, and a dinner at 6:30 o'clock. This will be followed by dancing and card playing.

 'A LETTER AND A PHONE CALL'

THAT NIGHT ROSA MASCARA IS UNABLE TO TUNE IN WITH HER RADIO, MUCH TO THE KEEN DISAPPOINTMENT OF LITTLE TONY BOLONI

I'LL CALL DA MAN UP IN DA MORNIN', TONY, AN' HAVE HIM FIX IT!

MEANWHILE DOWN IN THE BASEMENT OF THE LITTLE FRUIT STORE, FRANK BOLONI AND HIS COUNTERFEITERS ARE HARD AT WORK

DIS ONE PRETTY GOOD, JOE!

YEH, BUT AFTER I GO OVER DEM VID DA DYNAMO NEEDLE, DEY'LL BE PERFECT!

By Ed Wheelan

THE FOLLOWING MORNING BOLONI, STILL THINKING OF THE PRETTY SCHOOL-TEACHER, HAS HIS SON WRITE A NOTE

TELL HER YOU WANT HER TO COME SEE YOU AGAIN!

WHAT? YOU CANT SEND DA MAN BEFORE TO-MORROW? WELL, BE SURE TO SEND 'IM DEN, PLEASE

AND THAT IS HOW THE STRANGE HAND OF FATE BROUGHT TWO STRANGERS FACE TO FACE IN FRONT OF BOLONI'S FRUIT STORE

GASOLINE ALLEY

OH, MADAME! IT EES STUNNING ON YOU! IT EES GORGEOUSLY BECOMING. YOU WILL BE A WONDERFUL BRIDE.

GOLLY! WHAT TAKES SO LONG WHEN A WOMAN GOES TO TRY ON A DRESS? I CAN HAVE A SUIT OF CLOTHES FITTED IN FIFTEEN MINUTES.

WALT, YOU SHOULD SEE THE DRESS I JUST TRIED ON. IT'S GOING TO BE STUNNING! YOU'RE GOING TO BE PROUD OF ME WHEN I WALK DOWN THE AISLE

DID YOU TRY JUST ONE? I THOUGHT IT MUST HAVE BEEN AT LEAST A DOZEN!

GOLLY! I PARKED ON THE SHADY SIDE OF THE STREET BUT IT WAS THE SUNNY SIDE WHEN YOU CAME OUT.

I WASN'T LONG, FOOLISH! NOW JUST ONE MORE STOP AT MY MILLINERS. I WON'T BE BUT A MINUTE.

Oh, But Such A Minute!

KID DUGAN—Ain't Nature Strange?

YOU'VE BEEN SORT OF EXCLUSIVE, LATELY, HIGH-HATTING US. WHAT'S THE MATTER, YOU'RE NOT THE MR. BLUE THAT PUBLISHES THE BLUE BOOK ARE YOU?

NO, I'M JUST KID DUGAN, THE PUG, WHO IS NOT DESIROUS OF POLLUTING THE HIGH SOCIETY OF THIS BOARDING HOUSE BY HIS PRESENCE

JUST BECAUSE ONE PERSON QUESTIONS YOUR OCCUPATION YOU GET UP-STAGE WITH THE WHOLE BUNCH. IF YOU THINK YOU'RE SPITING ANYBODY MORE THAN YOURSELF, KEEP IT UP AND SEE WHO CARES

I NEVER THOUGHT I COULD GET SO INTERESTED IN A PERSON. I CATCH MYSELF THINKING ABOUT HIM, AND I GO OUT OF MY WAY HOPING TO MEET HIM. THAT'S A FUNNY WAY FOR ME TO ACT. IF I DON'T WATCH OUT I'LL BE FALLING IN LOVE WITH THAT BIG BOOG

ELLA CINDERS—A Friend Of Cleanem

IT WAS A SHORT COURT DAY. CLEANEM STARTED TO CROSS-EXAMINE ELLA, BUT HE DROPPED HER FASTER THAN AN IN-LAW DROPS A HINT. HE WAS ROARING WHEN HE BEGAN AND BLEATING WHEN HE QUIT.

WELL, YOU CERTAINLY MADE THE OLD CHIMPANZEE LOOK LIKE ONE OF HIS ANCESTORS! EVEN JUDGE JONES SNICKEDED! AND YOUR STEPMOTHER! HER FACE LOOKED LIKE AN ICE-SKATING SIGN, BUT SHE WAS SO HOT I COULD SMELL THE FEATHERS BURNING ON HER HAT!

THE JURY WORRIES ME A LITTLE, BUT NO MATTER WHAT THE VERDICT IS, WELL SPRING OUR SURPRISE AS SOON AS THEY BRING IT IN! THAT'LL SPIKE YOUR STEPMOTHER'S GUNS FROM THEN ON!

I'LL NEVER TAKE A CASE LIKE THIS ONE AGAIN! I'M SO UNPOPULAR I'M BEGINNING TO DISLIKE MYSELF! MY CLIENT SODS ME, THE DEFENDANT MOCKS ME, AND THE JUDGE KNOCKS ME! IF IT WASN'T FOR MY FRIEND ON THE JURY, I'D CONSIDER THE CASE AS GOOD AS LOST!

CITIZENS COUNCIL AGAIN IS REBUFFED BY COMMISSIONERS

Request Is Refused for District Municipal Reference Library.

REPEAL REGULATIONS ON PAYING TAXI FARES

Hearing Held on Strengthening Educational Requirements for Drug Clerks.

The District board of commissioners yesterday administered a second rebuff within a week to the citizens' advisory council. Tuesday the commissioners refused a request by the council to concur on a proposed ten-year program of municipal development. Yesterday it declared the council's suggestion that a municipal reference library should be established in the District building, as not to be "justified at this time."

Dr. George F. Bowerman, librarian of the public library, had addressed a communication to the commissioners asking endorsement for the plan. His letter opened with a declaration that it seemed an appropriate time to launch the project "in view of the agitation by the council" for it. The commissioners ordered that their secretary, Daniel E. Gargis, reply to Dr. Bowerman, saying that, in view of the many urgent needs, the new plan could not be justified at this time.

Letter From Judge.

The board also considered a letter from Judge John P. McMahon, of the police court, challenging the validity of two police regulations making failure to pay taxicab fare a misdemeanor punishable by a fine and compulsion to pay the charge, and making police officers arbiters in disputes between cab drivers and their passengers.

Corporation Counsel Francis H. Stephens agreed with the judge that the regulations were invalid, and Maj. Edwin B. Hesse, superintendent of police, said a court had so ruled some years ago and the regulations were considered by the police department a "dead letter."

A permit was issued to the Petworth Citizens association to hold a parade and celebration July 4, including the firing of a national salute by a gun and gun crew from the navy yard.

A proposal by a Los Angeles firm to put up trash cans on public streets for advertising purposes was rejected.

Hearing Is Held.

Prior to the board meeting a hearing was held on the pending bill to make education requirements more rigid for applicants for licenses to practice pharmacy. W. T. Kerfoot, secretary of the local board of pharmacy, said the board, unable to learn anything more about pharmacy from their work than if they were working in a 5 and 10 cent store.

The commissioners also heard an argument appealing from the action of Superintendent of Insurance Thomas M. Baldwin, Jr., suspending the license of the Provident Relief Association, a local insurance company, on the ground of impairment of its capital stock has been charged.

W. Blissett Thomas, attorney for a company, charged that W. van Gardiner, former District commissioner, acting as temporary manager of the concern, ran it into debt to the amount of $107,000. Thomas was given a week to file a written brief.

Willard Hotel Head Knighthood by Prince

Frank S. Hight, managing director of the Willard hotel, is now being addressed as "Sir Frank" by his friends. $500,000 Is Asked On False Prosecution

William S. Phillips, 1432 K street northwest, filed suit yesterday in circuit court against Erastus D. Whited, of Spencer, W. Va., to recover $500,000 damages for alleged malicious prosecution. Through Attorneys Julius I. Feyser and W. C. Sullivan, the plaintiff who is a real estate dealer, charges that Whited on May 19, 1923 procured an indictment in Roane county, W. Va., charging the plaintiff with certain alleged misrepresentations in connection with a real estate deal in this city.

This indictment was quashed by the supreme court of appeals of West Virginia, the plaintiff states. He spent $10,000 in defending himself, Phillips declares. Whited is also alleged to have filed a civil suit against the plaintiff and procured others to do likewise.

HESSE ATTEMPTS CUT IN TRAFFIC ARRESTS

Police Ordered to Use Discretion and Judgment in Enforcing Rules.

PARKING VIOLATORS LEAD

Maj. Edwin B. Hesse, superintendent of police, yesterday made another attempt to reduce the number of traffic arrests.

A tabulation by the police department of traffic arrests in May indicated that one-third of the 3,334 citations into court were for parking violations. After examining these figures Maj. Hesse issued a memorandum to commanding officers of police stations as follows:

"Many of the traffic amendments recently promulgated relate to parking vehicles, both as to method of parking and period of time parking is permitted at certain locations. In enforcing these amendments members of the force will exercise discretion and judgment."

"Where it appears that violations are not deliberate and where signs indicating time and method of allowable parking are not easily discernible, officers should, for a reasonable period of time, refrain from making arrests, but should, on the contrary, endeavor to secure the cooperation of motorists by explaining the provisions of the regulations and the necessity thereof."

"It should be borne in mind, however, that the amendments to the parking regulations are liberalizing in their general effect and continued or deliberate violations must not be tolerated."

Parking violations causing arrests in May numbered 1,081. There were 558 arrests for speeding, 158 for disobeying official signs, 156 for reckless driving, 39 for dazzling headlights, 133 for driving without permits and 108 for failure to show permits.

TRADE EXTENSION BUREAU HEAD FAVORS EDUCATION

Resolution Demands Chimneys Be Subjected to Smoke Experiments.

Harry M. Hart, of Chicago, was elected president of the National Association of Heating and Piping Contractors yesterday at the concluding session of their four-day annual convention in the Willard hotel. Mr. Hart succeeds Frank A. Merrill, of Boston, under whom he has held official positions in the organization.

Besides having been chairman of the board of directors, Mr. Hart has been a member of the committee on standardization. He is a past president of the American Society of Heating and Ventilating Engineers, and was formerly head of the Heating and Piping Contractors association of Chicago. William H. Anderson, of Long Island City, N. Y., was elected vice president of the national association. Horace W. Jones, of Rochester, N. Y., was elected treasurer, and Henry B. Gombers, of New York, secretary.

Directors Re-elected.

The following members of the board of directors were re-elected: William M. Anderson, of Philadelphia; William H. Driscoll, of Long Island City, N. Y.; Harry M. Hart, of Chicago; Horace W. Jones, of Rochester, N. Y.; John S. Jung, of Milwaukee, Wis.; Walter Kille, of Cleveland, Ohio; and R. Templeton Smith, of Pittsburgh, Pa. In addition, R. L. Spitzley, of Detroit, and Frank W. Howard, were elected directors.

Education of independent contractors through national and local associations was urged by William G. Bergner, manager of the national trade extension bureau, who delivered an address to delegates. An optimistic view of business for the coming year was taken by the speaker who pointed out the possibilities of trade extension. A resolution demanding that chimneys be subjected to a smoke test before the installation of heating apparatus, was unanimously adopted by the organization. Copies of the resolution will be forwarded to the American Institute of Architects and the National Board of Fire Underwriters. It was announced with suggestions that it be endorsed by them.
